REP. CHISHOLM IS ANGRY

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., a presidential candidate, was angered Friday at being left off two panels of the House Black Caucus that were discussing 1972 election strategy. She started a sentence and couldn't finish it because she was too outraged. She glared at the men on the caucus and started again: "The highest elected black woman official in the country today . . . You better wake up!"

Salary Increase Decision Close

FOR STATE EMPLOYEES

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Off and running in its race to meet 1972 legislative deadlines, the Appropriations Committee Friday moved close to a decision on proposed state employee salary increases for fiscal 1972-73.

Pending when the committee adjourned for the day were motions to authorize either 5½% or 6% increases, including fringe benefits.

Gov. J. James Exon earlier this week informed state agencies he will recommend a 6½% average package increase. That includes a 4% salary hike, and 2½% in health and life insurance benefits.

The committee will attempt to reach a decision on its salary recommendations at an executive session Saturday morning.

Once it acts on the salary question, the committee will be in a position to make budgetary recommendations for seven state agencies which presented their requests at formal hearings this week, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said.

Exon's salary proposals would raise general fund expenditures by an estimated $6.1 million.

The breakdown includes a 4% salary boost, costing $3.8 million; health insurance, $1.7 million; life insurance, $600,000.

Cut To 5½% Pending

Pending when the committee quit for the day was a motion to adopt a policy limiting the total package to 5½% in order to remain within the wage guidelines established by President Nixon's Pay Board.

But, the committee was informed, life insurance benefits are not included in the wage guideline.

The alternative motion would grant a 6% increase by accepting the governor's fringe benefits proposal and, in effect, reducing his 4% salary hike to about 3½%. That would keep the applicable salary and health insurance package within the 5½% guideline.

The current state budget provided for a $300 average salary boost for state employees, a figure which the Exon administration estimated to be a 5% average increase.

Appearing before the committee Friday were spokesmen for the State Patrol and the Department of Environmental Control.

$490,500 Needed

Col. James Krueger, superintendent of the Patrol, said his drug division chief, Lt. Wayne Rowe, has estimated that an additional $490,500 in funding would be needed to meet total drug control requirements.

That would increase the present staff of 10 to 36 by adding 14 investigators, 10 undercover informants and two clerical people.

Krueger's budget asks for funding for only four additional personnel in the drug division.

Senate To Vote Monday On Campaign Finance Plan

Washington (UPI) — The Senate agreed Friday night after 12 hours of debate to take a vote Monday on what Republicans called a "smelly" Democratic plan to finance presidential election campaigns with tax dollars.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Hugh Scott, worked in unity to wrest the agreement from their colleagues, some dressed in tuxedos ready to rush to social engagements.

Republicans, raising the possibility President Nixon would veto his multibillion-dollar tax bill rather than sign the Democratic plan into law, stalled the vote through the day.

by offering 10 amendments, all but one rejected.

Democrats considered the matter so vital that it could decide the outcome of the 1972 presidential election.

At issue was a proposal by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., to allow taxpayers to check a box on their tax returns designating $1 of their taxes to a fund. It would provide each major party with $20.4 million for the 1972 race for the White House. George Wallace would get $6.3 million if he ran.

113 Million

An estimated 113 million individual taxpayers, counting those filing joint returns, would have the chance to designate a voluntary $1 contribution to the fund. Any tax sum falling short of the full $47 million goal for all parties would be divided by the same proportions. Any money checked off in excess of the amount required would be returned to the Treasury.

If a candidate accepted money from the fund, he would have to sign a pledge — under threat of criminal prosecution — to spend no money on his campaign raised privately between his nomination and election day.

The Democrats expected Nixon to spurn public funding even if the plan is enacted. But they expected their own candidate to accept the funds, relieving their debt-ridden party of some of its money woes.

Under a compromise suggested by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., taxpayers would have the option of deciding which party would get their dollar.

Whip Mentions Veto

Senate GOP whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan told reporters that a presidential veto of the entire tax bill is "a definite possibility."

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., shrugged that off.

"If the President doesn't want this bill," he told reporters, "he has the power to block its enactment." He meant the Republicans could talk it to death.

Youth-in Action 'Finest Drummer' Performs Today

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

A young Lincoln musician who gets his high school teacher's recommendation as the "finest drummer" he's ever taught will be among several hundred students performing Saturday night in the finale of the three-day state music clinic.

He is 17-year-old Richard Walter, who wins that praise from Lincoln High School instrumental music teacher Orville Voss, a 23-year veteran of music teaching.

Young Walter, a senior at the school which is hosting the annual clinic, will be at the timpani when the orchestra featuring students from across the state begins its first number, "Roman Carnival Overture," at 7:30 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium.

Rich, who has been playing timpani for about six years, has been a drummer for about eight, he said.

A list of his music activities is evidence that he is spreading his talent around.

This is his fifth year as a member of the Lincoln Youth Symphony; his first with the Lincoln Symphony.

He's been to All-State for three years, where he played in the orchestra and the band and he was in the all-Nebraska "honor band" which played this summer for the American School Band Directors Association convention in Omaha.

Then, on the side, he plays with the Bobby Lane Orchestra, teachers private drum lessons and has just recently given up a spot with a rock band.

Rich says he intends to go on to school after he graduates this spring from Lincoln High, though he's unsure just where he will continue his music education.

"Right now," he said, "I'm not really pleased with the way I am playing."

"I feel I've got long way to go."

He noted that although he "grew up on rock" music, and now plays more orchestral and jazz music, he likes "everything."

"There isn't anything I play in or listen to that I don't get satisfaction out of," he said.

And the most satisfying as a performer, he said, is when "the sound is just right" as an orchestra or band plays — "especially when it's something real hard."

Butz Advice Seen As 'Rural Death Warrant'

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois charged Friday that Earl L. Butz's admonition to small farmers "adapt or die! resist and perish" could become the "symbolic death warrant for rural America" if he becomes agriculture secretary.

Joining growing opposition from farm state Democrats, Stevenson cited the statement which he said Butz made when he was serving as an assistant to agriculture secretary Ezra Taft Benson in the 1950s.

Partly Disbursed But only about $1 million of the $6.6 million in state funding appropriated for the current fiscal year will be disbursed by its conclusion next June 30, he noted.

The governor is now considering "several alternatives" to an additional large state appropriation at this time because he is "reluctant to have funds lie idle," Higgins noted.

At French Lick, Inc., the Republican Governors Conference adopted a resolution backing Butz and attacking "partisan political harassment of a presidential selection."

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, a Democratic presidential aspirant, speaking to the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach, urged organized labor to join the opposition to Butz. He charged that Butz's policies would lead to big business agriculture with higher prices for consumers.

Farmers Union Opposed

Tony T. Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, told the Senate committee that Butz was the first Cabinet nominee his organization had opposed in its 70-year history. He annual banquet held in connection with the association's convention and state music clinic.

Meanwhile, nearly 800 students from across the state continued to rehearse Friday for the Saturday night concert of outstanding young musicians.

Public Concert

The public concert, set for 7:30 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium, will feature performances by the orchestra under the direction of Carmen Dragon, conductor of the Glendale Symphony; by the band under the direction of Robert Werner, director of the Contemporary Music Project, and by the chorus under the direction of Alan Lehl, director of choral activities at Drake University.

On Friday, interested listeners were treated to workshop sessions by such groups as the Pro Arte Quartet and a "koto" ensemble from Grinnell College in Iowa.

A Koto is a Japanese string instrument.

Students attending the clinic heard a concert Friday night by the Pro Arte group and attended a dance at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Elected to the NMEA board of directors in Friday's balloting were Frank Mills of Lincoln Southeast High as chairman of choral affairs; June Moore of the Lincoln Public Schools as chairman of orchestral affairs, and Carl Easterbrook of Kearney State College as chairman of college and university affairs.

Controls To Go On Despite AFL-CIO

. . . President 'Not Upset'

• The New York Times

Bal Harbour, Fla. — President Nixon Friday appealed here to the AFL-CIO to cooperate with his Phase 2 economic controls, but declared that he would proceed with his program "whether we get that participation or not." He received a cool reception.

The President addressed the AFL-CIO convention a day after it mandated representatives on the Pay Board to adopt a policy of noncooperation.

'Straight' Talk

Discarding a prepared text to speak "straight from the shoulder," Nixon thanked the union leaders for support of his foreign and defense policies and recognized "disagreement" with his economic policy. He emphasized his view that a prosperous peace would depend upon curtailment of inflation and said, "The future of America is in the hands of 80 million American wage earners."

The audience reacted with polite hostility, punctuated occasionally by derisive laughter.

When Nixon left the hotel, AFL-CIO President George Meany announced that the convention "will now proceed with Act II," touching off a display of laughter, cheering, whistling and applause that far exceeded the minimal response to Nixon's 30-minute address.

Although he had been scheduled to remain at his Key Biscayne home until Sunday, the President left Florida abruptly Friday afternoon for Washington. Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, said the President "just decided to go back" to join Mrs. Nixon at a

Quoting news accounts of Meany's attack, Nixon recalled that the federation leader said that "if the President of the United States doesn't want our membership on the Pay Board on our terms, he knows what he can do."

As Meany looked on, Nixon continued:

"Well, you know, President Meany is correct. I know exactly what I can do — and I am going to do it."

Controls 'Fair'

Nixon said the controls, under a tripartite Pay Board with labor joining business and public members, and a Price Commission composed of public representatives, were intended to be fair to all elements of society.

"Whatever some of you may think," he went on, "a great majority of the American people, and a great majority of union members, want to stop the rise in the cost of living — and that's what we are going to do."

When Nixon asserted that the freeze had been "a remarkable success," laughter erupted from some members of the audience.

He cited statistics showing a drop in the wholesale price index and a new figure reflecting a small rise in the consumer price index.

"And so it was worth doing," Nixon said of the freeze. "If you don't think so, go home and ask your wives who go to the grocery store."

At that point, a number of labor officials groaned aloud and some laughed again.

United Nations — In a statement that surprised diplomats by its toughness, a Chinese delegate at the United Nations Friday accused India of interfering in the internal affairs of Pakistan and of obstructing peace efforts. The statement implied that subversive activities by India in East Pakistan had caused the flow of East Pakistani refugees.

Smuggling Corroborated

Paris — Col. Roger Barberot, director of a French foreign aid agency believed to be linked to French secret operations aboard, said in a radio interview in Europe he believed that French counterespionage agents had been involved in heroin smuggling, as Herbert J.

Stern, the U.S. attorney for New Jersey, has charged.

Propoganda Money OKd

Washington — The House approved a compromise measure to openly provide federal funds for Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe for at least two years. During that time, a nine-member commission would look into the future of the two stations, which have been funded secretly by the Central Intelligence Agency. The bill now goes to an uncertain reception in the Senate.

Youths Protest Treaty

Tokyo — About 6,000 Japanese radical youths, protesting the treaty under which the United States would turn Okinawa over to Japan but would retain military bases on the island, set fire to a Tokyo restaurant and to cars, brought train and motor traffic to a standstill in the Ginza district and fought pitched battles with policemen. One man died, many were injured and 1,785 were arrested.

Jackson Begins Uphill Presidential Fight

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson of Washington, an avowed underdog with nothing to lose, set off Friday on an uphill fight for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

"I'm going to take off my coat, roll up my sleeves a la Harry Truman, and tell it like it is," he said in declaring his candidacy.

Jackson announced he would enter primaries in New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois and Wisconsin. He freely conceded the New Hampshire test of strength in advance to Sen.

Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, "but I am confident I have a chance to make a reasonable showing."

The 59-year-old senator from the Pacific Northwest was accompanied by his wife, Helen, and his two children, Anna Marie, 8, and Peter, 5, when he made his long-awaited announcement in the marble-columned, red-draped Senate caucus room jammed with newsmen, friends and aides.

Florida First
Jackson, who will begin his campaign in Florida, estimated it would cost $1 million "to get to Wisconsin," the fourth of his planned primary contests. "We've raised part of it, and we're raising it all over the country," he said. "We're doing all right."

Jackson, a liberal on civil rights who's defense of a strong military and of President Nixon's Indochina policies have won him conservative support, is the 59-year-old son of Norwegian immigrants and has never lost an election since he became a county prosecuting attorney at the age of 26.

Jackson has argued successfully for antipollution laws and missile defenses since he entered the Senate in 1952. He is a member of the Armed Services Committee and is chairman of the Interior Committee.

Economy Top Issue
Jackson insisted his foremost campaign issue will be putting people back to work. Nixon, he said, had "lost the trust" of the people and both labor and business. To solve the nation's economic problems, he said, would require a president who could regain that trust.

"I believe that more than any potential candidate, I have the trust of both labor and business," he said. "That is one reason I am running."

He called the crime problem a "scandal" but said law and order must come within the confines of the Bill of Rights.

"I'm a law and order and justice man," he said, putting emphasis on the word justice."

He denied he was a hawk on Vietnam. "I'm neither a hawk nor a dove," he said. "I just don't want my country ever to become a pigeon. I hope we can always be the wise old owl."

Jackson said he doesn't believe the United States should "play world cop" but that it would be dangerous if America "should cop out on the world."

As the board announced its action, United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle issued a statement saying that the entire three-year contract, reported to call for a 39% increase, is binding since the board has no jurisdiction beyond next April 30.

The Pay Board management members said the increase to take care of the health and welfare fund "has no flow-through effect on pay, but goes to protect and continues existing benefits to retired and disabled miners. Therefore, it does not adversely affect the objective of reducing inflation."

The board widened its interpretation of allowable retroactive pay to include:

"Workers making less than $2 an hour who were denied a wage boost during the freeze."

Some fringe benefits, such as insurance payments, that would have gone up except for the freeze.

—So-called "tandem relationships" involving informal pay practices that allow workers to get pay raises if a pattern-setting boost is won by workers in the same industry.

Labor members said the widening of allowable retroactive pay boosts was very narrow and "totally inadequate."

The North Vietnamese have cut Highway 6 between the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and a 20,000-man task force that set out in October to clear the vital northern route.

Only Thursday, American officials disclosed that Cam-

Coal Contract's First Year Wins OK

Washington (UPI) — The Pay Board okayed the first year of the new coal industry contract by a 10-3 vote Friday in a key test of President Nixon's Phase 2 wage guidelines.

The agreement easily surpasses the board's wage-guideline of 5.5% a year for new contracts, although even the board's members disagreed on how much the coal miners are to receive in the first year of the pact.

The five labor and five management members approved the contract, signed just

15 minutes before Nixon's wage-price freeze ended at midnight Nov. 13.

But three of the five public members said in a statement that such an increase in wages clearly runs against the goal of the stabilization effort. They said the actual hourly compensation amounts to a 16.8% increase in the first year.

The management members said 4% of the increase goes to make the union's welfare fund solvent and the balance of the price index rose 0.2% for October. It said the increase was an even smaller 0.1% if adjusted to compensate for the fact that prices usually rise a little this time of year.

The seasonally adjusted rise was the smallest since April 1967, the BLS said. Perhaps more important, the October report means prices rose only 3.8% in the preceding year, the smallest 12-month rise since the period ending February 1968.

As prices rose, average weekly earnings for private nonfarm jobs dropped two cents in October to $129.11. One

Bishops Say Ending War Is Imperative
Memphis, Tenn. (UPI) — Two men who escaped from a Florida prison in a makeshift "tank" are wanted in connection with the robbery four days later of more than $20,000 from a Memphis bank, the FBI said Friday.

Joseph V. Baker, special agent at Memphis, said Rex Gyer, 26, of Richmond, Ind., and Wallace McDonald, 43, of Shreveport, La., are named in federal bank robbery warrants in the holdup Wednesday of First National Bank's Laurelwood branch.

Baker said physical evidence at the scene of the $20,770 robbery tied the two fugitives into the case.

Baker said warrants were issued for the two men.

Baker declined to say what physical evidence was used to connect the two men to the robbery. The men were not in custody, he said.

The two men were inmates at Raiford State Prison in Florida until Nov. 13, when they used a fork lift truck fitted with 10-gauge sheet metal for armor plate to escape through a barrier of bullet holes.

"We feel a moral obligation to appeal urgently to our nation's leaders and indeed to the leaders of all the nations involved in this tragic conflict to bring the war to an end with no further delay."

This was the first statement in three years by the American Catholic hierarchy on the war in Vietnam.

NU Preventive Health Work Includes 'Pill', Drug Problems

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

The director of the University of Nebraska's health center said Friday that as a part of the center's prevention-oriented program it distributes contraceptive pills to unmarried students, treats an increasing number of venereal disease cases and maintains a center for prevention and treatment of drug-oriented problems.

Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, medical director of the center, said the services given by the center are guided by a philosophy of "comprehensive health planning" adopted in 1947-48.

This program stresses prevention, rather than therapeutic services which can be handled through the community, said Dr. Fuenning.

Years ago this was a new idea, explained the director of the center, as the need for preventive programs was not much recognized. For this reason, he added, the government has had to invent "crash programs" to handle today's problems while the Health Center has simply had to recognize the new problems and absorb them into existing programs.

Change 'Dramatic'

Dr. Fuenning noted a "dramatic shift" in trends of student life about a year ago. Increased inquiries and requests for contraceptive pills, as well as an awareness of what was happening on other university campuses, led to the implementation of these new services at the Center.

According to Dr. Fuenning, a student who would like contraceptive information is first interviewed by a nurse who provides the student with a working knowledge about the pill and what its potential hazards might be.

This is a "counseling as well as an orientation session," he added, although the decision is left entirely to the student herself.

The second step, continued Dr. Fuenning, is a doctor's appointment, at which time a pelvic examination is done along with a pap smear and a gonorrhea culture.

If everything is physically in order, a prescription for pills is given. The girls are requested to check back in a month's time to see if they have any reaction to the medication or any questions. A further follow-up is done a year later.

Dr. Fuenning defends this service as a definite means of prevention, which is the philosophy behind the Center as a whole. If the center doesn't help these students, he added, they'll go elsewhere for pills, perhaps the black market. Or, often, unwanted children are the result, he said.

40-50 Cases A Week
At present, 40-50 students a week use this service, paying a flat fee of $15 for the whole process.

This is a "self-supporting" operation, emphasized Dr. Fuenning, and no state funds whatsoever are used. He explained that the $15 fee was necessary as the new service required additional staff and there was no additional income available.

Dr. Fuenning also noted a marked increase in venereal disease, especially gonorrhea. Students "suspecting potential venereal disease" visit the center every day for free medical check-ups.

Since 80% of women and 20% of men who have the disease have no symptoms, continued Dr. Fuenning, there has been an active follow-up program at the center to treat any "contacts" on campus. There has been a surprisingly good response to this program, he added.

Increase Gradual
Turning to drug abuse, Dr. Fuenning mentioned a gradual increase in students who are using the center's facilities for drug treatment.

Overdoses of stimulants and barbituates are not a new problem here, he added. Heroin is still relatively new to the community and there are few addicts among the students, he said.

At present, the crisis health aides are equipped to handle drug intoxication for the most part, but professional staff are mobilized in severe cases, according to Dr. Fuenning.

There is a definite need for continued education and more awareness about the use of drugs, he noted.

In reviewing the expanded role of the University Health Center, Dr. Fuenning says he takes a "realistic" stand. It is a "far greater tragedy" to avoid the problems we have made, than "to face up to them," he said.

The board accepted the testimony and then closed the hearing to the public to consider the data in private. Sam Davidson, board chairman, said that if any decision was made, the dairies would be notified later.

A spokesman for Fairmont Foods then presented data that showed the milk they sold in a gallon container cost the dairy slightly over four cents less in plastic containers returned to the store than in paper containers. The saving in the half gallon size was about one and a half cents per container.

Court: Voluntary Relinquishment Of Child Cannot Be Reversed

By United Press International
The Nebraska Supreme Court said Friday once a child is voluntarily relinquished for adoption, the action cannot be reversed.

The ruling was made in a suit appealed from the Douglas County District Court. It was filed by Miss Marjorie Kane against the United Catholic Services of Omaha Inc.

The high court said Miss Kane, 22 at the time, gave birth out of wedlock to a child on Oct. 11, 1970. A few days later she voluntarily relinquished custody of the child to the placement agency saying she had no means of supporting both of them.

Coercion Claimed

During the district court trial, Miss Kane contended she relinquished custody because of "economic coercion and economic duress," and therefore the relinquishment should not be binding.

She said just days after she turned over her child, she found ways of supporting them and also said the child placement agency should have helped her find those means in the first place.

The court said, however, that was not the business of the placement agency and Miss Kane, probably not alone in her plight, could not change her mind once a decision was made.

Not Revocable

"The relinquishment if voluntary, as it is here, is not revocable," the court said.

"Stresses, motivation and circumstances such as are outlined by the evidence are probably present in many cases such as this."

"Much as we are moved by the mother's evident desire for her child and the unfortunate circumstances which motivated her decision to sign the relinquishment, we have no choice but to affirm the judgment," the court said.

In other decisions, the court:

—upheld the Douglas County District Court conviction of Keith Bratton for robbery.

—upheld the judgment of the Sarpy County District Court in an automobile insurance dispute between George Bilek and Travelers Indemnity Co.

Burglary, Habitual Criminal Conviction Upheld By Court

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court, saying prisoners should not be allowed to endlessly appeal to the courts, upheld the burglary and habitual criminal conviction of Henry Reichel.

Reichel had appealed the Lancaster County District Court conviction on the grounds that a previous case, used to convict him of being an habitual criminal, was in error.

That conviction was in 1958 and was for burglary. Reichel contended specifically he had not been granted the right to an attorney, which lead to his unjust conviction.

The high court, however, in an opinion written by Justice Hale McCown, noted it was the third time Reichel had appealed his last conviction to the courts.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One of the more progressive and constructive things done recently by the Legislature has been the early meeting of its Budget Committee. The committee is already holding informal hearings on state agency money requests for the 1972-73 year.

That may sound like a long way off but it really is just around the corner, in legislative terms. The Legislature will be meeting in January, 1972 and, in the past way of doing things, the budget committee would get underway shortly thereafter.

But by the time it had completed its hearings, the committee would be lucky to have its recommendations on the floor prior to adjournment. In '72, senators will be in their even-year short session of 60 days, not much time to hear and debate a budget.

The committee, of course, will not be able to settle anything prior to the formal session. For one thing, it cannot act formally until it receives the recommendations of the governor and this will not come prior to opening.

But by looking at preliminary requests now, the committee will have a good understanding of things and be able to move much more quickly after it receives the governor's recommendations. Hopefully, this will permit some discussion of the budget by the full Legislature, contrary to last year's fiasco in which the full body rubber-stamped the actions of its committee.

But even the procedural matters involved here will not be the most important aspect of the budgeting process. The all-important thing will be the level of appropriations approved by the committee and the full Legislature.

There is no question what Gov. J. James Exon will do. He will cut requests and he will pare the budgets down to get them within the framework of a sales and income tax rate that does not exceed current levels. If anything in state government is a certainty, this is it.

We hope that the committee does not again this year adopt the same position as the governor. We believe it is a mistake to set an arbitrary limit or ceiling on state spending as Exon has done.

If the committee can provide an adequate budget with existing tax rates, that would be the thing to do and, certainly, such an action would appeal to taxpayers. But the committee is shirking its responsibilities if it does not look at the needs of state agencies as well as the tax rates.

We are accumulating in many areas a backlog of needs that will ultimately come home to roost. In pollution control, recreation facilities, several areas of state inspections, higher education, capital construction, penal reform, conservation and others, we are short-changing areas of need, slowing the progress of the state and curtailing opportunity for future progress.

With Exon, we would have more of the same, not less. With the governor, we would fall further in arrears in a growing number of areas, accumulating problems for some future generation to solve. The governor is sincere in his efforts and his position enjoys a lot of popularity but this doesn't make him right.

He has said in the past that the tough decision to make is the one that says "no" to spending plans. Presumably, it is easy to give agencies most of what they want and let the tax rates fall where they might.

Of course, extremes should not be condoned and we would not advocate that departmental budgets be adopted as submitted. There is no question that a balance needs to be struck between the needs of agencies and the ability of taxpayers to pay for these needs.

But the difficult thing, the hard thing, is to provide the leadership that encourages progress and wins a reasonable measure of public support in the process. Exon's "no" is actually the easy answer, not the hard one.

It is easy to tell a taxpayer his taxes are not going to rise. It is hard to tell him the rates will go up and to convince him of why this should be done. Hopefully, the budget committee will adopt no arbitrary ceilings in advance but will look realistically at demands and at what the state can afford.

Hearings In Panama
On Interests Of U.S.

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee is preparing to hold hearings in Panama to find out whether the State Department is selling out U.S. interests in the Panama Canal.

Panama is seeking sovereignty over the famed canal. This is now the subject of delicate negotiations between the State Department and the Panamanian government.

But Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., chairman of the Panama Canal subcommittee, suspects the State Department is more anxious to appease Panamanian strongman Omar Torrijos than to uphold U.S. rights.

Murphy laid his worries before his parent Merchant Marine Committee on November 8 behind closed doors. He warned that the State Department may be giving away too much in Panama and asked for authority to send investigators to Panama to prepare for hearings.

"Concessions by the U.S.," he told his colleagues glumly, "are the order of the day." He said the U.S. apparently is going to give Panama almost everything it wants except for actual control and defense of the canal operations.

Down the drain would go the legal rights of U.S. citizens living in the Canal Zone, most commercial rights of U.S. corporations and a good deal of land belonging to the U.S., he said.

He pleaded that he didn't want to upset the negotiations, but "if we do not meet our responsibilities in these areas, no one will do it for us."

The committee approved Murphy's request. In response, he announced behind closed doors that he would hold hearings late this month in the U.S. and send staff members to Panama to arrange hearings on the spot. Among the witnesses he hopes to call, he said, are Defense Secretary Mel Laird, the State Department negotiators and Canal Zone governors, both past and present.

Murphy said he would also like to hear from Panamanian leaders, including Torrijos himself.

When the State Department got wind of Murphy's plans, the diplomats of Foggy Bottom howled as if someone had ripped the stripes off their striped pants.

Wrote Assistant Secretary David Abshire huffily to Murphy: "The presence of your committee in the Republic of Panama and/or the Canal Zone could seriously affect the course of these negotiations to the detriment of U.S. interests."

"The mere fact that hearings are being held on foreign soil constitutes an encroachment on the rights of the foreign government and the rights of its nationals."

Until the State Department abrogates those rights, however, the U.S. has sovereignty over the Canal Zone. This entitles Congress to hold hearings there. Murphy, therefore, has decided to go ahead with them.

House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., grumped to friends the other day that he was "going broke" traveling around the country to make speeches. With an eye on the White House, he has been accepting just about every speaking engagement he can get. He has received thousands of offers of financial help, he said, to finance his announced presidential campaign. But so far he has turned down all contributions.

Keeping Faith

Lincoln, Neb.

"M.W." of Lincoln asked the question: "If Adam and Eve had two sons, Cain and Abel, where did the boys get their wives?" The answer is obvious to anyone who reads Genesis 5:4, and should be equally obvious to Dr. Darrel Berg, who, incidentally, failed to answer M.W.'s question.

The only women from whom to choose a wife would have been their sisters, of whom there would have been many, as Adam lived over 800 years after their birth. The shocking part of Dr. Berg's statement is that he has the opinion that the story of Adam and Eve is only a myth. Either all of the Bible is the Word of God and is true and all of what it says did happen, or it is not the Word of God and we can disregard all it says as words of men, including the story of Jesus.

A minister or pastor is to teach his people the Word of God and how to live by it. If he himself does not believe it, how can he teach others to follow it? If the Bible is taken away, we must also take away Jesus Christ; then the building that is left is nothing but a "whited sepulchre." I ask Dr. Berg, as a minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, to reconsider his statement and keep faith with the people who are counting on him to help them find the Way, the Truth and the Life.

They Had A Dream

In antebellum days, lumber was a booming business in the lower Mississippi Valley. It called for the labor of numerous slaves.

One of them was an unusual man named Simon Gray. Gray, though a slave, could read and write better than most laboring-class whites and could handle the bulky lumber barges with superior skill.

He commanded barges delivering lumber from Natchez to New Orleans, he bossed white crews and acted as agent for his employer both in the purchase and sale of lumber to river cities and plantations.

In his work, Gray also transacted business and transported supplies in his own name, and amassed considerable money for a Mississippi slave.

Gray was owned by Andrew Donnan, a merchant and blacksmith, who hired him out to lumberman Andrew Brown in 1835.

By 1838, Gray had won the respect and confidence of Brown and was placed in charge of a crew bringing logs down the Yazoo River to Brown's sawmill at Natchez.

In his pocket, Gray carried a pass from Brown authorizing the window and into the loving hands of new owners. His new home is far from Lincoln.

"Ajax" was introduced to the visiting poodles. Two were gray and it was the white one named "Blue" that took Ajax into her heart and life. They chased, leaped, scratched in joyous abandon, later to sprawl close in happy exhaustion. The two gray poodles ignored the newcomer in haughty disdain.

Mike, the big dog, watched the kitten in amused tolerance. At chow time, the whole kaboodle flew to the allotted corner. Ajax, being the smallest, couldn't get to first base, but soon learned that by crouching, he could creep under even the small dogs and eat fully of what the meal provided. Of course, he got his side dish of milk.

No sudden noise startled the kitten. I have been told by several pet shops that some white cats with blue eyes can feel vibrations but are born completely deaf. It seems an unfair trick by Mother Nature to deprive an animal of its protection.

The kitten was named "Ajax" because he was so white—and turned to Blue!

Cigarette Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

I see by the paper that State Senator Lue d k t e urges Governor Exon to talk over the extravaganza that he and the Legislature have proposed relative to the building of a state office building. I would suggest that the Legislature remember that they initiated this cigarette tax sham in the first place and the governor vetoed the bill.

We have a new home, purchased under the HUD 235 loan. If the taxpayers could see how their money is being spent to help pay for these homes, they would have it declared unconstitutional.

My house is eight months old.

The contractor has not finished it, nor does he intend to. He and the real estate agent have their money. The loan company gets their payment every month. No one cares if we are satisfied or not. The worst part of this whole deal is that the FHA has approved all of this, so whom do we turn to now?

We have our unfinished home with three months left on our year's guarantee, which wasn't worth the paper it was written on.

I think some investigating should be done on these homes.

Surely not all 235 homes can be as bad as this.

'A Vast Game'

A cliché-ridden movie rerun we saw the other night featured a likably corrupt U.S. senator who wanted a shot at the White House. Fighting tooth and nail for the governorship so he could control his state's convention delegation, the senator rationalized his shortcomings by declaring that a politician is no better than the people he serves and that if there weren't favor-seekers and pocket-liners in high places, this great American system would not be a representative democracy.

At the end, the senator succumbed to a coronary and good guy, pure heart Ephrem Zimbalist Jr. walked off with the gubernatorial nomination and the senator's widow.

John W. Gardner, former cabinet officer and now chairman of the citizens' lobby, Common Cause, is not usually given to overstatement. And he sees no such happy ending in real life.

Most of America's political processes have become a "vast game of barter and purchase" behind the scenes, Gardner told the Young Democrats' national convention this week. "It is a game that is going on all the time at every level of government," he said, citing campaign contributions, appointments to high office, business favors and favorable legal decisions and location of defense installations.

The anger felt by a fed-up public "could constitute an explosive charge that could splinter our two major parties. It could lead us to follow the shallowest of demagogues. It could result in massive refusals to vote. It could lead to increasing violence or to severe repressive measures," Gardner declared. Asking the Young Democrats to help "remake the political process," he said, "If you don't, an enraged citizenry may remake it without your help—and the outcome may or may not be what wise and reasonable men may wish."

Instinctive distrust of politicians is as old as man. And whereas people haven't exactly taken up arms against the scoundrels, there has been an increasing loss of public confidence in the political process in recent years. Gardner asks the politicians to save themselves.

His prescribed ounce of prevention—legislation calling for campaign spending controls, restrictions on lobbying, full disclosure of conflicts of interest by each public official and full freedom of information—should be on the books in any case. And it would be well worth it to avoid the pounds of cure he was talking about.

Apollo Grounded?

While the benefits of the U.S. moon program balanced against the tremendous expenditure of money, talent and time cannot be fully measured at present, it would seem to be folly to call a premature halt to the Apollo landings when much of what the space scientists are looking for is yet undiscovered.

That apparently is what the administration's Office of Management and Budget wants to do in order to effect savings that would amount to a drop in the bucket. This is the same agency that wanted to give you "economy" by cutting down on the free lunch program for needy school children.

The budget office reportedly has asked the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) for a substantial cut in its budget request for the next fiscal year. The requested reduction is said to be "quite a few hundred million dollars" below the current $3.3 billion budget.

Some sources said that NASA, at the claiming the glories of Adam Smith, the free market place, and the wonders of competition, but now that the Japanese and the Germans have mastered the arts of the computer and the scientific revolution with lower wages, the welfare state and the planned economy, they are slowly adjusting, like Meany, to controls. If it didn't hurt so much, it would be funny, for the Republicans are now backing controls, and the old Democratic New Dealers, who invented them, are arguing for a little more freedom.

George Meany, of the AFL-CIO knew all along that the ideological approach to the Soviet Union, and has sent off Secretary of Commerce Stans and a 10-man delegation to seek substantial increase in trade with Moscow.

Like Meany, Nixon knew all along that the ideological approach to trade didn't keep the Soviet government from getting even the most sophisticated computers and scientific equipment from West Germany and Japan.

Nixon reads the returns—economic as well as political. In the third quarter of 1971, the United States had the largest balance of payments deficit—the difference between what the country takes in and what it spends abroad—in the history of the Republic.

He is a traditional Republican. Every party has its nightmare, and the nightmare of the Republican party is economic trouble—after all, the Republicans were out of power for 28 out of 36 years because the Democrats exploited and ran successfully against "the Hoover depression," and nobody knows this better than Richard Nixon.

And now, confronted with a potentially disastrous financial and trade problem in the world, he has finally scrapped his ideological approach to the Soviet Union, and has sent off Secretary of Commerce Stans and a 10-man delegation to seek substantial increase in trade with Moscow.

Washington refused to do so, when it was prosperous, on ideological grounds, but since the recession came in and the unemployment, with an election coming up, it is taking a different view.

It is looking for business and votes. It is being forced by the bad economic news to do the things which it wanted to do, but could not quite do in good times, but is now forced to do when things are tough.

He bought a flatboat and in his spare time bought sand and him to travel without interference. Gray was also entrusted with small sums of money to pay his crew and purchase logs upriver.

In 1844, Brown opened a wholesale and retail outlet in New Orleans and Gray was put to work commanding barges on their runs from Natchez to New Orleans. He was the company's chief boatman from 1845 to 1862, according to Brown, "was a first-rate fellow."

Gray's crews numbered 10 to 20 men and included both slaves and white rivermen. He kept not only their pay records but records of his buying and selling for the company as well.

He often was called on to exercise considerable judgment and initiative. On what were known as "coasting trips," he called on

Federal Air Control Bill Is Opposed

The State Aeronautics Commission Friday voted to oppose a Senate bill which would bring intrastate state airlines under the jurisdiction of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Aeronautics Director Nicolas Smeloff said Nebraska's five-man congressional delegation would be notified of the commission's stand on the issue.

"The states have the power and the ability to effectively regulate intrastate air carriers," Smeloff said. "I strongly oppose taking away the responsibility and authority of the states and giving it to the CAB."

"To allow them (CAB) to regulate intrastate carriers in addition to interstate airlines would only expand the current problems of the CAB. Matters which can be efficiently dispatched with at the state level will drag on for years under the CAB."

Currently, CAB does not have the authority to control airlines which fly totally within a state.

However, interstate commercial airlines have objected to the lack of regulation on intrastate carriers calling it unfair competition. The interstate airlines filed suits over the matter in California and Texas; however, the courts chose to rule in favor of the intrastate airlines.

Since the court route failed, the interstate interests are now lobbying in favor of a bill before the Senate giving the CAB authority over the intrastate airlines.

Although the state Railway Commission has jurisdiction over the airlines, there are no laws regulating intrastate airlines in Nebraska since there are none, Smeloff said.

"Right now, it's a purely academic problem," Smeloff said; "but if the bill would pass, any airlines established in the future which would operate wholly within Nebraska would be affected."

In other action, the commission approved the heliport at Grand Island and reaffirmed its approval of the Wide-Sky Commercial Airport at Seward.

Peru Director Takes Position In Missouri

Donald K. Carlile, a Peru State College administrator, has accepted a position as director of placement at Northwest Missouri State College in Maryville, effective Jan. 3.

Carlile, 46, has been Peru State's director of special services since 1956. The State Colleges' Board of Trustees was informed of Carlile's resignation in a fall meeting.

At Peru State Carlile was responsible for the campus news bureau, sports publicity, preparation of publications for student recruitment and student recruitment. He was also alumni association secretary and wrote and published the college's alumni magazine.

Missouri River Shipping Record Is Established

Omaha (UPI) — A new commercial shipping record for the Missouri River was established Nov. 7, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said Friday.

The new record is 2,661,311 tons, which is 12.5% ahead of the figure for the same date a year ago.

Ice conditions permitting, the 1971 navigation season is scheduled to end Dec. 11. Officials said a new yearly figure in excess of 3 million tons was possible.

State Patrolman Urges Safety During Holiday

The rewards of safe driving habits can add meaning to the Thanksgiving holiday, according to Col. James E. Kruger, commander of the Nebraska State Patrol.

Kruger asks all drivers to consider traffic safety as a byword during the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday period.

Hearing On 8 Counts Of Rape To Be Closed

Hastings (UPI) — The public and the news media will be barred from Adams County District Court during the preliminary hearing on eight counts of rape and three counts of burglary which have been charged

District Judge Norris Chadderdon sustained a motion by Irwin's defense counsel, Gene C. Foote II, who had requested a court order to exclude the public and representatives of the public and the news media from the preliminary hearing.

Irwin's preliminary hearing is scheduled for Tuesday. He has been held in the Adams County Jail since early October in lieu of $30,000 bond.

Foote argued that "dissemination of evidence or arguments aduced in the hearing may disclose matters that may be inadmissible as evidence at the trial and is therefore likely to interfere with the defendant's right to a fair trial by an impartial jury."

Prosecutor William Connolly, Adams County Attorney, argued in court against barring the news media from the hearing. When Chadderdon's decision was announced Connolly had no comment.

Although the investigation started in 1969, the report said 17 of the 68 plants were spot-checked in October and again this year.

Report Omits Poultry Farms In Nebraska

Washington (UPI) — There are no Nebraska poultry farms listed in a controversial report on sanitary conditions, aides to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said in Washington Friday.

Ribicoff had called for the report issued earlier this week by the Government Accounting Office. The report concluded that unacceptable sanitary conditions were the result of lax enforcement policies.

Although the investigation started in 1969, the report said 17 of the 68 plants were spot-checked in October and again this year.

Two Sections Of School Land Sold At Rushville

Rushville — Two full sections of state school land were sold here at the appraised value.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy V. Watkins of Alliance purchased one section for $33,280, or $32 an acre. The legal description of the land was Section 16, Township 24, Range 42.

A Lakeside couple, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Hinn, bought the other section for $23,040 or $36 an acre. The legal description was Section 16, Township 27, Range 44.

Panhandle Expressway Is Approved

The State Highway Advisory Commission approved the 71-mile Freeway-Expressway through Nebraska's Panhandle Friday.

The highway, which will cost $28.8 million, goes from Broadwater to Bridgeport and on to Scottsbluff where it turns west paralleling Highway 26 to the Wyoming border.

G. C. Strobel, deputy state engineer, told the commission that construction could begin within 4 years.

The first segment of 12.69 miles from Mitchell to Scottsbluff will cost $8.2 million.

Kearney, Neb. (UPI) — Jim Popert, director of the Northwest Nebraska Housing Development Corp., was named president Friday of the newly formed Housing and Economic Development Organization of Nebraska.

Twelve representatives of community action agencies attended the organizational meeting of the group which intends to provide a forum for the exchange of ideas in housing and economic development.

National Guard Seminar Planned For Commanders

About 50 battalion and company-level Nebraska Army National Guard commanders are expected to attend the Nebraska Adjutant General's recruitment-retention seminar Saturday and Sunday at the airport Holiday Inn.

The seminar is aimed at exchanging ideas that might aid local National Guard units in developing recruitment and retention programs, according to a news release from the Nebraska Adjutant General's Office.

Other topics to be discussed are: minority recruiting, career counseling, role of the family, employer relations and the citizen soldier's responsibility to his community and state.

Battey Named As A Director Of Gas Firm

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Charles W. Battey Jr. was named Friday to the board of directors of the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co.

Election of Battey filled a vacancy on the board created by the recent death of Frank Flagg, former financial vice president of the company and a long-time board member.

Battey is president and a director of the Commerce Bank of Kansas City. A native of Lincoln, he is a 1954 graduate of the University of Nebraska. He joined the Commerce Bank in 1970 as executive vice president after a 16-year association with Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., of Chicago.

Dutch Elm Disease Hits 83 Nebraska Counties

By The Associated Press
Dutch elm disease has now been recorded in 83 of Nebraska's 93 counties, and a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension plant pathologist said Friday it does not appear that an effective control is yet in sight.

Dr. David S. Wysong said there is no way of telling when the disease will occur, and it's impossible to establish a timetable for the spread to unaffected counties.

Whereas 12 counties were added to the infected area last year, only one county, Blaine, has been added this year.

The 10 counties in which the disease has not yet been detected include Boyd, Grant and Hooker, plus seven in the Panhandle.

Dr. Wysong said American and Red Elm are far more susceptible to the disease than are Siberian and Chinese Elms, so the variety grown affects control programs. Severe winters also can lower the population of Elm Bark Beetles, which are the primary carriers of the fungus which causes Dutch elm disease.

Initially, DDT was used as a control for the beetle. Since the banning of DDT, Methoxychlor has been substituted, but the latter has proved less effective, Wysong said. This was demonstrated by experience in Lincoln. In 1969 and 1970, Lincoln sprayed elm trees with remaining supplies of DDT and then with Methoxychlor, and recorded a tree loss rate of 3.2 and 3.6%, respectively. This year, when only Methoxychlor was used, the loss rate increased to 6.5%.

State Colleges Board Doesn't Seat Burkhardt

The State Board of Technical Community Colleges held its second meeting Friday; however, Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk was not seated on the board as the representative of the State Board of Education.

Mrs. Dorothy Beavers of Omaha, the board's chairman, said Burkhardt could not be seated because the board had not received any communication from the Board of Education designating its representative.

So throughout the meeting Burkhardt stayed as an observer.

The State Board of Education was divided at its last meeting as to whether Burkhardt or Francis Knapple of Omaha

Nebraska, Iowa Aged Percentage Is 2nd High

Kansas City (UPI) — Nebraska and Iowa ranked second highest in the nation with the percent of citizens 65 years or older, a survey of the 1970 census figures by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Administration on Aging shows.

Kansas City (UPI) — Nebraska and Iowa ranked second highest in the nation with the percent of citizens 65 years or older, a survey of the 1970 census figures by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Administration on Aging shows.

The six states in the country which ranked highest by per cent of population aged 65 or older — 12% or more — five are in the central region. Four of those five are in the area comprising the federal government's Region VII — Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Iowa and Nebraska show 12.4% of their total population being in the senior citizen category. Missouri had a 12% and Kansas was close behind with 11.9%.

U.S. Harkson scholarships in engineering have been awarded to three students at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, all seniors in the College of Engineering and Architecture.

Jerry N. Novacek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Novacek of Benkelman, was awarded a $500 stipend. He is a civil engineering major.

Thomas M. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Johnson of Omaha, received $250. He is majoring in mechanical engineering.

Boyd W. Myers, a civil engineering major, also received $250. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd E. Myers of Paxton.

What Indians Need Are Fewer Experts—Golden

Omaha (UPI) — Author-editor Harry Golden said here that what Indians need are fewer experts on Indians.

Contending he was no expert on the subject, Golden spoke here to raise funds for the Indian scholarships.

He said Indians "need a new policy by Congress acknowledging your right to live in peace, free from arbitrary harassment. What you need is a cultural leave-us-alone agreement."

Golden, in his first speech in behalf of the Indian minority, said he was "intrigued by the Indian sense of humor."

He said, "Indians know how to laugh at themselves. When you can laugh at yourself, that marks you as a secure person."

Wedding In Omaha

At a 7:30 o'clock ceremony on Friday evening, Nov. 19, the marriage of Miss Julie Ann Hasselbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Tyrrell, to Frank DeLong Jacobsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herald Jacobsen, all of Omaha, was solemnized at the Dundee Presbyterian Church in Omaha. Dr. Edward Stimson read the lines of the service.

Miss Nancy Kathryn Hasselbach of Omaha attended her sister as maid of honor; and the bridesmaids included Miss Mary Jo Trapp of Omaha, Miss Linda Simonson of Mullen, Miss Donna Mitchell of Fremont, and Miss Mary Hasselbach of Omaha.

Robert Jacobsen of Omaha served his brother as best man; and the groomsmen included John Hausmann, Steve Adams and Phillip Johnson, all of Omaha, and James Carstens of Glen Ellyn, Ill.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown fashioned of Ivory satin accented with Venise lace. The Empire bodice, designed with a high Edwardian collar, and long lace-cuffed Bishop sleeves was smoothly fitted above the A-line skirt banded with lace at the hem. A chapel train edged in lace added back interest to the gown. A Camelot cap held to the head her train-length veil and shoulder-length blusher of silk illusion, and she carried a nosegay of cream colored roses and gypsophelia.

Mr. Jacobsen and his bride, both of whom were graduated from the University of Nebraska, will reside in Omaha.

A 'Gobble' Time For Everyone

What do turkeys say?
"Gobble-gobble-gobble."
Where do they come from?
"Eggs!"

So went the conversation when a group of four-year-olds visited the University of Nebraska Poultry Farm on Friday morning to see those fine feathered friends that grace our Thanksgiving tables. But the birds were in their natural dress — with feathers — and the gobbling was constantly answered by the children.

Their guide explained the wide-eyed children are Head Starters at the West Lincoln School, and the field trip was just one of the weekly adventures undertaken to help the children become better acquainted with their environment.

And the students of Mrs. Charles R. Salem were treated to a fantastic learning experience as they viewed the Broadbreasted White variety of turkeys in all sizes and stages of development.

Their guide explained the sorting and cleaning process for the eggs. Then the class moved into the incubation area where the little tots were fascinated with the huge machines that turn eggs into baby turkeys — and then the size and noise of the full-grown Tom.

Above, a few of the students are studying the caged turkey and saying, "Maybe next year this one will be big enough to be a Thanksgiving dinner."

Suburbia Is In A Festive Mood

It's beginning to look a lot like November, with winter coats, scarves and mittens becoming more and more apparent every day; and come next Thursday, we predict that it will also begin to smell a lot like November—especially in the kitchens of homes where traditional Thanksgiving dinners are being prepared.

Despite the chill in the seasonably brisk winds social activities in Lincoln's suburban areas have continued unabated during the very recent past; and all indications are that the activity will increase before it diminishes (perhaps around Jan. 2, 1972.)

A very festive gathering took place Thursday evening at the Happy Hollow Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Larsen and family. The center of attention just happened to be Mr. and Mrs. Larsen's son, Robert, who observed his seventh birthday yesterday.

The day-early celebration took the form of a family get-together, and on hand to wish the young man a "happy birthday" were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Malek and Mr. and Mrs. John Larsen; his uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. John Larsen, Jr., Miss Mary Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwab, and Mrs. Jerry Malek and daughters, Rosemary, Julianne and Annelie; his sisters, Jean Ann and Carol Lynn; and, a very important member of the family, the Larsen's year-old poodle Pogo.

A congratulatory banquet was on Friday evening's agenda for Meadow Lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Zentic, and a number of other very important people. As everyone knows, Mr. Zentic is head coach of the East High School football team which recently earned the state championship title; and the dinner, which took place at the Elks Club, honored Mr. Zentic and, of course, the members of the team. The festive event was sponsored by the Clock Tower East Merchants.

Mr. and Mrs. Zentic and children, Sheri Lynn, Susan Jean, Michael Lee and Mick Allen, will be among those Lincoln travelers who will be doing a bit of holiday traveling next week. The Zentic family will motor to their former home, Shenandoah, Iowa, where they will be Thanksgiving Day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barry.

Also taking to the road for the holiday weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hopkins and children, Kristi, Tracey and Brian. Their destination will be Manhattan, Kan., where they will be the guests of Mr. Hopkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hopkins.

On Thanksgiving Day, the Lincoln travelers will take part in a family reunion which will be held at the Warren Hopkins' home, and which will be highlighted by a traditional holiday dinner. Also taking part in the fun will be Mr. Hopkins' brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hopkins, Jr. and sons, Craig and Verne, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hopkins and children, Mandy, Alice and Larry all of Manhattan; and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Layton of Topeka, Kan.

Incidentally, we understand that the television set at the Hopkins home will be tuned in to the NU-Oklahoma game —despite the fact that most of those who will be in attendance are Kansas or Kansas State fans.

Evening Ceremony

On Friday evening, Nov. 19, the marriage of Miss Rita Ann Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Monroe Roberts, to Steven Bitters Black, son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert S. Black, Jr. of Omaha took place at the Chandler Acres Baptist Church in Omaha. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Richard R. Lindsay of Wichita, Kan.

Miss Denise Arthur of Omaha was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant.

Michael Duffy Black served his brother as best man; and Dr. Barry Turner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Warren H. Cooke of Omaha, and J. M. Roberts, Jr., brother of the bride, seated the guests.

Candlelight satin fashioned the bride's gown, which was designed in the Empire mode. Appliques of reembroidered Alencon lace accented the bodice which featured a rounded neckline and long, tapered sleeves; and the A-line skirt was completed with a cathedral train. Appliques of the lace were repeated on the floor-length veil, which was held in place with a pearl comb; and she carried a white prayer book and an arrangement of white roses and chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the couple will reside in Omaha.

The bride will be graduated in January from the University of Nebraska School of Nursing. Mr. Black is a senior in the University of Nebraska School of Medicine, and he is a member of Phi Chi medical fraternity.

Thursday evening was "congratulations" night for the Cornhusker Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Opening lead — jack of spades.

Most mistakes by declarer flow from a failure to plan the play — whether at the start of the hand or in the course of it.

This tendency to proceed without planning is more a matter of bad training than bad judgment, and all too often this approach leads to a disappointing result.

For example, look at South's method of play in this hand. He won the spade lead with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps, and played a diamond to the queen, which held.

Locked in dummy, there was nothing South could do to salvage the situation. He had to lose a spade, a diamond and two clubs to go down one.

But had he looked far enough ahead, South would have realized that drawing trumps at once was not the proper line of play. He would have known, had he weighed the matter fully, that he could insure the contract if West had the ace of diamonds or if East had the ace of clubs.

Having recognized this, he would have won the spade lead with the ace and immediately played a diamond towards the K-Q. If the queen held, he could then draw trumps before playing a second diamond to the king.

In the actual case, this course of play would have yielded ten tricks consisting of two spades, six hearts and two diamonds.

The big difference between the two methods of play is if South temporarily delays the extraction of trumps he can use the trump suit as an additional means of entry to his own hand, thus enabling him to lead diamonds twice towards dummy instead of once. This in turn permits him to establish a trick in dummy while dummy still has an entry to cash the trick.

There is nothing unusual about the correct line of play — it is simply a matter of making the right plays in the right order.

Abby: needs help

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here in one of my usual stupors — stuffed as a pig!

I am a compulsive eater. I cannot seem to stop eating once I start, and I start for any number of reasons. If I'm bored, unhappy, troubled, worried or angry. I say, "Oh, to hell with everything" and I head for the fridge to "treat" myself.

Of course I have become so repulsive to look at that my husband has lost all interest in me, altho I think he still loves me.

Clothes? I refuse to go shopping. I'm too ashamed of myself to even take my coat off in public. Sure, I would love to lose weight and be a normal human being again, but there are no Weight Watchers in my city. And no psychiatrists either. The physicians in this town say, "Here's a diet, you big blob — now follow it!"

I have so much compassion for anyone who is hooked on drugs, or booze, or anything, because I'm hooked, too. On food! What I want to know is, can anyone help me?

SICK OF MYSELF

DEAR SICK: You are "sick," all right. But you know what your problem is, and you're calling for help, which means you are half way home. You don't say where you live, but wherever you are, if there is a Mental Health Clinic or a Family Service Agency, go there! If there is neither, then take a trip to the nearest city which has one and present yourself. Please write again and enclose your name and address. I want to personally help you.

DEAR ABBY: I'm still tittering over that letter about the cow who would permit only men to milk her. Of course, men can win any milking contest hands down. Solving the cow's problem may take some pull, but for the right person it should be in the bag. Sign me "BO VINE" in SEATTLE

DEAR BO: I counted five puns, including your signature. Now that's what I call milking a gag dry.

Thanksgiving Day Clash A Classic In Many Ways

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Being 10-0 and ranked No. 1 and being 9-0 and ranked No. 2, respectively, is enough to put the Thanksgiving Day battle between Nebraska and Oklahoma in the "classic" category.

But it's also a "classic" in that Oklahoma is No. 1 in the nation in total offense and Nebraska is No. 1 in total defense.

The game matches a Sooner ground attack that is averaging 481.4 yards per game against a Husker defense that has allowed opponents only 70.5 yards per outing on the ground.

You've got an Oklahoma team that's averaging 563.2 yards per contest in total offense against a Nebraska defense that is yielding a norm of only 171.7.

It's an Oklahoma offense that's averaging 45 points a game against an NU defense that is giving up only 6.4 per game.

VARSITY WINS, 91-70—

Creighton Effort Pleases Sutton

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Coach Eddie Sutton said his Creighton Bluejays would play a different game this season and he proved it here Friday night.

The Creighton varsity used a fast-break and press effectively at Civic Auditorium to down its freshman basketball counterparts, 91-70, before 2,576 fans. Last year, the Bluejays were known as a deliberate ball control squad.

Although Sutton and freshman coach Jocko Ilcisin substituted freely throughout the contest, the new Creighton style was prevalent.

The Bluejay yearlings were constantly plagued by poor field goal shooting and turnovers. The freshman only connected on 23 of 63 from the field for a 36.5 shooting percent while the varsity made 38 of 50 for 50.7 percent.

The frosh jumped to a 5-2 lead but the varsity went ahead, 8-7 on Bimbo Pietro's free throw.

Then the varsity reeled off five straight points and were never pressed. The freshman continued to falter, but kept the varsity from completely breaking open the game by using its fast break and press.

Sutton indicated he was pleased although he termed the defense as the biggest disappointment.

"We didn't do as good a job on the defensive boards or playing on man-to-man defense," Sutton said. "The play was ragged at times, but we expected it being this early in the year."

"Everyone played well and I hate to single out one player, but I thought (Ralph) Bohik did an exceptional job," said Sutton.

Bobik came into the game late in the first half and scored 13 points and grabbed eight rebounds over a span of seven minutes. He finished with 21 points and 12 rebounds to lead both categories.

Another point that displeased Sutton was fouls.

"Although we were super aggressive on defense like I want we made too many careless fouls," he pointed out, "but we've got 14 or 15 practices before our first game with Wisconsin State and we hope to improve."

The freshman were led by 6-8½ Doug Brookins of Goshen, Ind., who tallied 19 points. Teammates Wayne Groves had 11 points and nine rebounds. Charles Butler 14 points, Dave Terek 12 and seven rebounds and Wayne Groves 11 points and nine rebounds.

Schuyler sophomore Gene Harmon finished with 12 points and eight rebounds.

Collegiate Football Schedule Curbed By Thanksgiving Weekend Showdowns

By Associated Press

Rose Bowl-bound Michigan No. 3 in the nation and undefeated, plays its regular season finale against Big 10 rival Ohio State Saturday in a college football schedule curbed by upcoming Thanksgiving weekend showdowns.

The Wolverines are putting their 10-0 record on the line at home against the 6-3 Buckeyes, last year's representative at Pasadena, while on the West Coast, Stanford, ranked 18th in the nation, battles California for the other Rose Bowl berth.

The Stanford-California game, as far as bowls go, however, should be taken lightly. Even if California beats Stanford, the Golden Bears would still have to win a court battle with the NCAA which put the team on probation earlier this year.

. . . RETA'S ROSTER INCLUDES FIVE FRESHMEN

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer

The youth movement has hit

Nebraska's swimming team. With five freshmen and three sophomores on his 16-man roster, coach John Reta knows that the success of his sixth NU squad depends largely on the progress his younger tankers show.

"It's one of the youngest teams we've had here," he says, "our success is dependent upon the adjustment the freshmen make to college competition."

Injuries Dim Basketball Outlook For Oklahoma

(First of a Series)

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer

If attrition continues to wear down Oklahoma's basketball team, coach John MacLeod may not wonder which five to play, but if he even has five players.

With veteran forwards Charles Hardin, Paul Crowell and Russell Burks out with injuries and sophomore guard Rick LaCour sidelined with a broken hand, the Sooners are down to just 11 players.

"The problem we have right now with the injuries is that we can't use our best people in practices," MacLeod says as he enters his fifth season at the Sooner helm. "We're scrimmaging some of our sophomores who just can't play well enough defensively to push our offense."

The injured forwards aren't expected back until at least Jan. 15 leaving MacLeod gapping holes to fill from a squad that streaked to 19-8 overall and a second-place Big Eight figure.

Despite six seniors and nine returning lettermen, MacLeod is still counting on two sophomores. Ted Evans, a 6-9 center-forward from Topeka, Kan., and Tom Holland, a 6-8 forward-center from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, are both expected to see considerable action.

Lettermen Scott Martin, who averaged 14.7 points per game last season, Andrew Pettes, Kirby Jones and John Gorman are battling for the guard spots. Bobby Jack, last year's top scorer with a 17.3 production, should give the Norman crew scoring strength.

Six seniors — Martin, Pettes, Jones, Jack, 6-9 center-forward John Yule, Hardin and 6-6 forward Ron Lynch — are the most MacLeod has at OU. The Sooners also retain 83.3 percent of their scoring potential from last year—the highest Big Eight figure.

Biologist Questions Whether Genetic Manipulation Is Wise

A University of Minnesota developmental biologist Friday said that man undoubtedly will be able to manipulate his life genetically in the future, but he asserted there is a "serious question" whether he should do so.

"The very survival of the human race or any other species," said Dr. Robert G. McKinnell, "depends upon genetic or hereditary diversity."

Dr. McKinnell spoke on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus as the first speaker in a series during the year on the topic, "Where Is America Going?"

"Upon the diversity of individuals in the human race," he said, "hinges the adaptability of the race to survive environmental changes."

Discussing the biological revolution and the breakthroughs in so-called "genetic engineering," Dr. McKinnell suggested that cancer may be wiped out sometime in the future genetically like polio was wiped out by virus vaccines in the last decade.

He said $1.6 billion is being earmarked to find a cancer cure, but this is not being done for social reasons but because cancer, like polio, has "tragic consequences for the individual and his family."

NSEA Asks To Enter Book Loan Law Case

The Lancaster County District Court will be asked Tuesday to allow the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) to become a third party to a suit over the constitutionality of the state's textbook loan law.

Lincoln attorney Ted Kessner, representing the association said Friday a hearing has been scheduled before District Court Judge Bartlett E. Boyles for Tuesday afternoon.

Earlier this year, the Nebraska Legislature passed a law which authorizes the state's public schools to loan non-religious textbooks to private school students.

In return, the lending school would be able to claim up to $15 reimbursement in state aid for each student helped.

After its passage, however, State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley, acting on the advice of the State Justice Department, said he would not allow the law to be implemented.

Subsequently, Omaha attorney Richard Hotz filed a request with the Nebraska Supreme Court. Specifically, he asked the High Court to accept the constitutional question as an original action.

Request Denied

The request was denied, and Hotz, acting in behalf of the William D. Gaffney family, also of Omaha, filed suit in Lancaster County District Court in an effort to reach the Supreme Court through standard appeal channels.

The State Education Association is attempting to face the human race, and its survival, Dr. McKinnell suggested, is over-population, pollution and the future spectre of world starvation.

The finding of a cure for cancer is a trivial matter for the human race as compared to the more serious ones of population, pollution and starvation."

As dramatic as the biological revolution has been, Dr. McKinnell said, there are larger problems for the world populations and the human race, itself, to be solved by sociologists, political scientists and economists."

Venter Services Set For Monday; Local Electrician

Funeral services for DeWitt T. Venter have been set for 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Metcalf Funeral Home. Mr. Venter, 81, of 2535 Q, died Friday.

The Gaffneys contend the law is constitutional and that their children, enrolled in Omaha parochial schools, should be given the benefits of the book loan program.

The State's side of the case, which the association is attempting to become a party with, contends the law is unconstitutional on its face.

The state claims the law is in violation of the constitutional separation of church and state.

Destined For Test

The law itself has been destined for a court test since its very beginnings.

Its sponsor, State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, asked the Legislature to adopt the law so that it could be appealed to the courts for a test.

He said the people have been embroiled in the controversy for many years and a decision on that law may pave the way for clearer guidelines on whether the state may help the private education system.

Already before the Supreme Court and awaiting a final ruling is a suit involving the leasing of classroom space in a private school by a public school.

The District Court has upheld the right of the Hartington School District to lease space in the Hartington Cedar Catholic School, but the State Education Department disagreed and appealed the matter to the Supreme Court.

Nebraska's Title I Allotment To Be Increased $126,504

The State of Nebraska has received word that its fiscal 1972 Title I allotment is $126,504 more than for the year which ended last June 30.

Total grant for the new year, according to Larry Vontz of the state Title I office, is $7,523,056, compared with $7,396,552 for fiscal '71.

The grants, allotted under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, go for programs for educationally

St. Luke's OKs $23,764 Budget

The members of St. Luke's United Methodist Church approved a $23,764 budget for 1972 at their annual church conference Thursday night, according to Rev. James Hansen.

Church officers elected at the meeting include: Larry Reifsneider, chairman of the administrative board; Kenneth Smetter, state conference delegate; Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Magnuson, cochairmen of the finance committee; Gary Bornemeier, lay leader; Dean Case, assistant lay leader; and Miss Ann Rolofson, secretary of the trustees.

Other officers are William Rolofson, work area chairman in evangelism; Mrs. James Underhill, president of the women's society; and Ed Hester, ecumenical representative.

New to the church this year is a youth council. The council members include: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Larkins, and Wallace Rollins. The youth representatives on the council are James Underhill, Jr., and Mark Cary.

Drug Group To Meet

A statewide survey on drugs will be presented and probable future legislation on drugs will be discussed at a meeting of the Nebraska Commission on Drugs Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. in the East Chamber of the State Capitol. The commission will be meeting with the Interim Legislative Committee.

handicapped children in low-income areas.

Vontz said although the state's total was up, some Nebraska counties will experience a drop in funds, while others will receive more.

$200,000 More

Douglas County, he said, will get some $200,000 more than it received last year, while Lancaster County's total is up $57,000.

Vontz also said the state stands to gain during the 1973 fiscal year, because of a national floor established for states by Congress.

The floor, which goes into effect next year, will reduce allotments to 10 states, while putting more funds into the programs in the other 40.

Number Of Children

Vontz noted that the grants are allotted on the number of children in Aid to Families of Dependent Children (ADC), children and low-income families.

He said the state can also expect a "significant change next year" when 1970 census data goes into use in figuring the allotments based on low-income numbers.

The 1972 grants were figured on a formula using 1960 census figures, he said.

Drawn To Curtis Test

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Not in 30 years has a U.S. senatorial contest in Nebraska drawn as many Democratic contenders as already have emerged for the 1972 primary.

State Sen. Wayne W. Ziebarth's recent candidacy announcement raised to five the number of announced bidders for nomination to the seat to which Republican Sen. Carl T. Curtis seeks renomination and re-election.

Further, the books are not yet closed, and State Democratic Chairman Hess Dyas would not be surprised to see at least two more names added to the list.

There has not been such Democratic interest in a senatorial primary since 1942 when seven Democrats filed. One was Scottsbluff's Terry Carpenter, one of the current candidates. He ran third in that 1942 contest, won by Omaha broadcaster Foster May.

Three Others

Besides Carpenter and Ziebarth, the announced Democratic contenders include Wallace C. Peterson and Donald L. Ferguson of Lincoln, and Mrs. Phyllis Person Lyons of McCook.

Possible contenders include former Gov. Frank Morrison of Omaha, agricultural economist Burt Evans of Lincoln and State Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh. Don Search of Kearney State College has been mentioned, but is regarded now as a more likely candidate for U.S. representative.

Sen. Curtis has drawn one firm challenger on the GOP ticket in Mrs. Philip R. Kneifl, Omaha educator and widow of an attorney. Another Republican, Atkinson rancher E. J. Collins, has said he is considering the race.

Primary elections in which an incumbent Republican senator is involved have not normally drawn this much attention, at least in modern times.

Hruska Unopposed

Sen. Roman Hruska was unopposed in both 1958 and 1964 primaries, and drew only token opposition last year. Sen. Curtis was unopposed in 1960 and 1966.

The casual observer could conclude there is a feeling that Curtis next year will be vulnerable to an upset.

Dyas says he is certain the candidates "would not be letting themselves in for all this hard work and effort" if they did not foresee such a possibility.

Dyas sees three factors as encouraging the Curtis challengers — the closeness of the Hruska-Morrison race last year, indications of a "growing disillusionment" among Republicans, and a possible detriment to Curtis from his tie-in with a Republican president "who, to all indications, has forgotten about rural America and has written off agriculture."

Hruska Wins

Hruska won over Morrison 240,894 to 217,681 in 1970. The relative closeness of that race "perked up a lot of people's attention," Dyas says. However, the Democratic party chief says he regards Curtis as a stronger candidate than Hruska. "If they (Curtis and Hruska) were running against each other, I would probably put my money on Curtis."

Dyas says he picks up from several sources evidence of GOP dissatisfaction with Curtis — a feeling that Curtis has been in Washington too long "and that he's not doing a job for the state, for Republicans or for anybody."

However, Curtis has shown no signs of ballot box weakness in his previous senatorial outings. In 1954 he defeated Democrat Keith Neville about 255,000 to 162,000; in 1960 he won over Robert B. Conrad 332,000 to 245,000, and in 1966 he defeated Morrison 296,000 to 187,000.

While the lively Democratic race now developing will create interest and enthusiasm, Dyas says there are pitfalls. One is the divisiveness which can result from a hard fought primary. The other is the financial impact on party contributors, many of whom will find themselves approached by a variety of presidential and other candidates, out to raise the money it takes to fund a campaign. Dyas said he hopes the money-raising activity "doesn't get out of hand."

Vasectomy Clinic Available Here

If a family is complete, "permanent" methods of birth control should be available to family members, according to Greg Farstrup, vasectomy counselor at the Family Planning Center, 3830 Adams St.

Federally-funded through the Office of Economic Opportunity and administered through the Nebraska Family Health Assn., a vasectomy clinic has been in operation since September.

Farstrup explained that several Lincoln community doctors have volunteered their services to the clinic, which makes the operation, which causes the male to be permanently sterile, available to low-income families at a nominal charge.

If a man telephones about vasectomy information, continued Farstrup, we suggest he call his family doctor or we refer him to one of the several doctors in the community who performs the operation as an out-patient procedure in his office. Farstrup added that many doctors are reluctant to do vasectomies on young people, as the operation is presently irreversible for the most part.

Until recently, Farstrup explained, sterilization has not been available to low-income persons on a wide scale. He said that a general practitioner charges $75-$100 for performing the operation, while a urologist might charge as much as $150.

The clinic follows the OEO guideline for low income persons which is based on yearly earnings of $3800 for a family of four. The fees charged by the clinic for a vasectomy are based on a percentage of total income.

The clinic is a "counseling and information" service as well as a health service. Farstrup added, working on a "person to person" basis, and the final decision is made by the patient himself, he said.

Farstrup first became interested in family planning as a Peace Corps volunteer in Ceylon. He feels that the overpopulation problems stem from the "middle class families having extra children," but it is the low-income people who are "feeling the pinch."

The population problem is "not an issue" when we talk to our patients, Farstrup added. It is an "individual and a personal" matter, he said.

Although the clinic has performed only three vasectomies since its opening, Farstrup reported that there have been increased inquiries daily as information of this service is becoming more readily available to the public.

REP. CHISHOLM IS ANGRY

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., a presidential candidate, was angered Friday at being left off two panels of the House Black Caucus that were discussing 1972 election strategy. She started a sentence and couldn't finish it because she was too outraged. She glared at the men on the caucus and started again: "The highest elected black woman official in the country today . . . You better wake up!"

Salary Increase Decision Close . . . FOR STATE EMPLOYEES

By DON WALTON

Staff Writer

Off and running in its race to meet 1972 legislative deadlines, the Appropriations Committee Friday moved close to a decision on proposed state employee salary increases for fiscal 1972-73.

Pending when the committee adjourned for the day were motions to authorize either 5½% or 6% increases, including fringe benefits.

Gov. J. James Exon earlier this week informed state agencies he will recommend a 6% average package increase. That includes a 4% salary hike, and 2½% in health and life insurance benefits.

The committee will attempt to reach a decision on its salary recommendations at an executive session Saturday morning.

Once it acts on the salary question, the committee will be in a position to make budgetary recommendations for seven state agencies which presented their requests at formal hearings this week. Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said.

Exon's salary proposals would raise general fund expenditures by an estimated $6.1 million.

The breakdown includes a 4% salary boost, costing $3.8 million; health insurance, $1.7 million; life insurance, $600,000.

Cut To 5½% Pending

Pending when the committee quit for the day was a motion to adopt a policy limiting the total package to 5½% in order to remain within the wage guidelines established by President Nixon's Pay Board.

But, the committee was informed, life insurance benefits are not included in the wage guideline.

The alternative motion would grant a 6% increase by accepting the governor's fringe benefits proposal and, in effect, reducing his 4% salary hike to about 3½%. That would keep the applicable salary and health insurance package within the 5½% guideline.

The current state budget provided for a $300 average salary boost for state employees, a figure which the Exon administration estimated to be a 5% average increase.

Appearing before the committee Friday were spokesmen for the State Patrol and the Department of Environmental Control.

$490,500 Needed

Col. James Kruger, superintendent of the Patrol, said his drug division chief, Lt. Wayne Rowe, has estimated that an additional $490,500 in funding would be needed to meet total drug control requirements.

That would increase the present staff of 10 to 36 by adding 14 investigators, 10 undercover informants and two clerical people.

Kruger's budget asks for funding for only four additional personnel in the drug division.

Youth-in-Action 'Finest Drummer' Performs Today

By MILAN WALL

Star Staff Writer

A young Lincoln musician who gets his high school teacher's recommendation as the "finest drummer" he's ever taught will be among several hundred students performing Saturday night in the finale of the three-day state music clinic.

He is 17-year-old Richard Walter, who wins that praise from Lincoln High School instrumental music teacher Orville Voss, a 23-year veteran of music teaching.

Young Walter, a senior at the school which is hosting the annual clinic, will be at the timpani when the orchestra featuring students from across the state begins its first number, "Roman Carnival Overture," at 7:30 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium.

Rich, who has been playing timpani for about six years, has been a drummer for about eight, he said.

A list of his music activities is evidence that he is spreading his talent around.

This is his fifth year as a member of the Lincoln Youth Symphony; his first with the Lincoln Symphony.

He's been to All-State for three years, where he played in the orchestra and the band and he was in the all-Nebraska "honor band" which played this summer for the American School Band Directors Association convention in Omaha.

Then, on the side, he plays with the Bobby Lane Orchestra, teachers private drum lessons and has just recently given up a spot with a rock band.

Rich says he intends to go on to school after he graduates this spring from Lincoln High, though he's unsure just where he will continue his music education.

"Right now," he said, "I'm not really pleased with the way I am playing."

"I feel I've got long way to go."

He noted that although he "grew up on rock" music, and now plays more orchestral and jazz music, he likes "everything."

"There isn't anything I play in or listen to that I don't get satisfaction out of," he said.

And the most satisfying as a performer, he said, is when "the sound is just right" as an orchestra or band plays — "especially when it's something real hard."

Propoganda Money OKd

Washington — The House approved a compromise measure to openly provide federal funds for Radio Liberty and Radio Free Europe for at least two years. During that time, a nine-member commission would look into the future of the two stations, which have been funded secretly by the Central Intelligence Agency. The bill now goes to an uncertain reception in the Senate.

Youths Protest Treaty

Tokyo — About 6,000 Japanese radical youths, protesting the treaty under which the United States would turn Okinawa over to Japan but would retain military bases on the island, set fire to a Tokyo restaurant and to cars, brought train and motor traffic to a standstill in the Ginza district and fought pitched battles with policemen. One man died, many were injured and 1,785 were arrested.

Coal Contracts OKd

Washington — The Pay Board approved, in a 10-to-3 vote, the wage increase of at least 15% won by the nation's soft coal miners last week. (More on Page 2.)

Nixon's Reception Cool

Bal Harbour, Fla. — President Nixon told a politely hostile audience of AFL-CIO leaders here that he wanted their support of his economic program but would proceed with it "whether we get that participation or not." (More on Page 1.)

Price Index Creeps Up

Washington — Normal and allowable seasonal increases for new cars and clothing were the chief causes for a rise of 0.2% in the consumer price index last month. (More on Page 2.)

Compromise Proposed

Washington — Sen. Charles Mathias, in an attempt to break the Senate's impasse over a campaign financing bill, proposed that the measure be changed so that taxpayers could designate the party they wanted to support with the $1 of their income tax that they could allot for campaign financing as the bill is currently written (More on Page 1.)

Jackson Begins Uphill Presidential Fight

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson of Washington, an avowed underdog with nothing to lose, set off Friday on an uphill fight for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

"I'm going to take off my coat, roll up my sleeves a la Harry Truman, and tell it like it is," he said in declaring his candidacy.

Jackson announced he would enter primaries in New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois and Wisconsin. He freely conceded the New Hampshire test of strength in advance to Sen.

Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, "but I am confident I have a chance to make a reasonable showing."

The 59-year-old senator from the Pacific Northwest was accompanied by his wife, Helen, and his two children, Anna Marie, 8, and Peter, 5, when he made his long-expected announcement in the marble-columned, red-draped Senate caucus room jammed with newsmen, friends and aides.

Florida First

Jackson, who will begin his campaign in Florida, estimated it would cost $1 million "to get to Wisconsin," the fourth of his planned primary contests. "We've raised part of it, and we're raising it all over the country," he said. "We're doing all right."

Jackson, a liberal on civil rights whose defense of a strong military and of President Nixon's Indochina policies have won him conservative support, is the 59-year-old son of Norwegian immigrants and has never lost an election since he became a county prosecuting attorney at the age of 26.

Jackson has argued successfully for antipollution laws and missile defenses since he entered the Senate in 1952. He is a member of the Armed Services Committee and is chairman of the Interior Committee.

Economy Top Issue

Jackson insisted his foremost campaign issue will be putting people back to work. Nixon, he said, had "lost the trust" of the people and both labor and business. To solve the nation's economic problems, he said, would require a president who could regain that trust.

"I believe that more than any potential candidate, I have the trust of both labor and business," he said. "That is one reason I am running."

He called the crime problem a "scandal" but said law and order must come within the confines of the Bill of Rights.

"I'm a law and order and justice man," he said, putting emphasis on the word justice."

He denied he was a hawk on Vietnam. "I'm neither a hawk nor a dove," he said. "I just don't want my country ever to become a pigeon. I hope we can always be the wise old owl."

Jackson said he doesn't believe the United States should "play world cop" but that it would be dangerous if America "should cop out on the world."

Coal Contract's First Year Wins OK

Washington (UPI) — The Pay Board okayed the first year of the new coal industry contract by a 10-3 vote Friday in a key test of President Nixon's Phase 2 wage guidelines.

The agreement easily surpasses the board's wage-guideline of 5.5% a year for new contracts, although even the board's members disagreed on how much the coal miners are to receive in the first year of the pact.

The five labor and five management members approved the contract, signed just

15 minutes before Nixon's wage-price freeze ended at midnight Nov. 13.

But three of the five public members said in a statement that such an increase in wages clearly runs against the goal of the stabilization effort. They said the actual hourly compensation amounts to a 16.8% increase in the first year.

The management members said 4% of the increase goes to make the union's welfare fund solvent and the balance of the of the chief criticisms of the freeze was that it held down wages more effectively than it held down prices.

The price increase puts the consumer price index at 112.6% of its 1967 level. This means it cost $11.26 in October to buy what $10 bought four years ago.

Escapes In 'Tank' Sought For Robbery

Memphis, Tenn. (UPI) — Two men who escaped from a Florida prison in a makeshift "tank" are wanted in connection with the robbery four days later of more than $20,000 from a Memphis bank, the FBI said Friday.

As prices rose, average weekly earnings for private nonfarm jobs dropped two cents in October to $129.11. One price index rose 0.2% for October. It said the increase was an even smaller 0.1% if adjusted to compensate for the fact that prices usually rise a little this time of year.

The seasonally adjusted rise was the smallest since April 1967, the BLS said. Perhaps more important, the October report means prices rose only 3.8% in the preceding year, the smallest 12-month rise since the period ending February 1968.

The management members said 4% of the increase goes to make the union's welfare fund solvent and the balance of the increase, 11% for salaries, is allowable as a catch-up wage hike.

As the board announced its action, United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle issued a statement saying that the entire three-year contract, reported to call for a 39% increase, is binding since the board has no jurisdiction beyond next April 30.

The Pay Board management members said the increase to take care of the health and welfare fund "has no flow-through effect on pay, but goes to protect and continues existing benefits to retired and disabled miners. Therefore, it does not adversely affect the objective of reducing inflation."

The board widened its interpretation of allowable retroactive pay to include:

—Workers making less than $2 an hour who were denied a wage boost during the freeze.

—So-called "tandem relationships" involving informal pay practices that allow workers to get pay raises if a pattern-setting boost is won by workers in the same industry.

Labor members said the widening of allowable retroactive pay boosts was very narrow and "totally inadequate."

Only Thursday, American officials disclosed that Cambodia had asked for more air support and U.S. fighter-bombers had stepped up attacks on enemy forces there the past 10 days.

A Hanel of the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., said an infrared spectrometer aboard the small spacecraft had indicated the presence of water vapor over the south pole. He said the three previous Mariner spacecraft, Mariner 4 in 1965 and Mariner 6 and 7 in 1969, had not detected water.

Mariner 9 went into orbit around Mars Nov. 13.

The Martian south pole is one of the two areas Mariner 9's television cameras were able to penetrate last week. They sent back pictures showing the pole area capped with a bright white material, which most scientists think is frozen carbon dioxide — dry ice.

But many scientists aren't convinced the polar caps are covered only with dry ice.

Some have suggested that because the poles are cold and water freezes at a much higher temperature than carbon dioxide, a sheet of ice is laid down first as the Martian winter approaches. Then it is covered by carbon dioxide.

Cambodia Asks Help In Opening Supply Route

Saigon (UPI) — Hard-pressed Cambodia has called on South Vietnam for engineers and big guns to reopen the supply route to its imperiled forces on the northeastern front.

South Vietnamese officials said Friday that high Cambodian officers flew to Saigon with a request for 36 South Vietnamese 105mm howitzers and crews and an engineering battalion, 1,000 men in all.

The North Vietnamese have cut Highway 6 between the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and a 20,000-man task force that set out in October to clear the vital northern route.

Only Thursday, American officials disclosed that Cambodia had asked for more air support and U.S. fighter-bombers had stepped up attacks on enemy forces there the past 10 days.

The big Cambodian force on the northeastern front is in apparent disarray after the fall last week of Rumbong, 52 miles northeast of Phnom Penh on Highway 6. This gave the enemy control of a four-mile section of Highway 6.

NU Preventive Health Work Includes 'Pill', Drug Problems

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

The director of the University of Nebraska's health center said Friday that as a part of the center's prevention-oriented program it distributes contraceptive pills to unmarried students, treats an increasing number of venereal disease cases and maintains a center for prevention and treatment of drug-oriented problems.

Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, medical director of the center, said the services given by the center are guided by a philosophy of "comprehensive health planning" adopted in 1947-48.

This program stresses prevention, rather than therapeutic services which can be handled through the community, said Dr. Fuenning.

Years ago this was a new idea, explained the director of the center, as the need for preventive programs was not much recognized. For this reason, he added, the government had to invent "crash programs" to handle today's problems.

According to Dr. Fuenning, a student who would like contraceptive information is first interviewed by a nurse who provides the student with a working knowledge about the pill and what its potential hazards might be.

This is a "counseling as well as an orientation session," he added, although the decision is left entirely to the student herself.

The second step, continued Dr. Fuenning, is a doctor's appointment, at which time a pelvic examination is done along with a pap smear and a gonorrhea culture.

If everything is physically in order, a prescription for pills is given. The girls are requested to check back in a month's time to see if they have any reaction to the medication or any questions. A further follow-up is done a year later.

Dr. Fuenning defends this service as a definite means of prevention, which is the philosophy behind the Center as a whole. If the center doesn't help these students, he added, they'll go elsewhere for pills, perhaps the black market. Or, often, unwanted children are the result, he said.

40-50 Cases A Week
At present, 40-50 students a week use this service, paying a flat fee of $15 for the whole process.

This is a "self-supporting" operation, emphasized Dr. Fuenning, and no state funds whatsoever are used. He explained that the $15 fee was necessary as the new service required additional staff and there was no additional income available.

Dr. Fuenning also noted a marked increase in venereal disease, especially gonorrhea. Students "suspecting potential venereal disease" visit the center every day for free medical check-ups.

Since 80% of women and 20% of men who have the disease have no symptoms, continued Dr. Fuenning, there has been an active follow-up program at the center to treat any "contacts" on campus. There has been a surprisingly good response to this program, he added.

Increase Gradual
Turning to drug use, Dr. Fuenning mentioned a gradual increase in students who are using the center's facilities for drug treatment.

Overdoses of stimulants and barbituates are not a new problem here, he added. Heroin is still relatively new to the community and there are few addicts among the students, he said.

At present, the crisis health aides are equipped to handle drug intoxication for the most part, but professional staff are mobilized in severe cases, according to Dr. Fuenning.

There is a definite need for continued education and more awareness about the use of drugs, he noted.

In reviewing the expanded role of the University Health Center, Dr. Fuenning says he takes a "realistic" stand. It is a "far greater tragedy" to avoid the problems we have today, than "to face up to them," he said.

The board accepted the testimony and then closed the hearing to the public to consider the data in private. Sam Davidson, board chairman, said that if any decision was made, the dairies would be notified later.

Court: Voluntary Relinquishment Of Child Cannot Be Reversed

By United Press International
The Nebraska Supreme Court said Friday once a child is voluntarily relinquished for adoption, the action cannot be reversed.

The ruling was made in a suit appealed from the Douglas County District Court. It was filed by Miss Marjorie Kane against the United Catholic Services of Omaha Inc.

The high court said Miss Kane, 22 at the time, gave birth out of wedlock to a child on Oct. 11, 1970. A few days later she voluntarily relinquished custody of the child to the placement agency saying she had no means of supporting both of them.

Coercion Claimed
During the district court trial, Miss Kane contended she relinquished custody because of "economic coercion" and "economic duress," and therefore the relinquishment should not be binding.

She said just days after she turned over her child, she found ways of supporting them and also said the child placement agency should have helped her find those means in the first place.

The court said, however, that was not the business of the placement agency and Miss Kane, probably not alone in her plight, could not change her decision to sign the relinquishment, we have no choice but to affirm the judgment," the court said.

Not Revocable
"The relinquishment if voluntary, as it is here, is not revocable," the court said. "Stresses, motivation and circumstances such as are outlined by the evidence are probably present in many cases such as this."

"Much as we are moved by the mother's evident desire for her child and the unfortunate circumstances which motivated her decision to sign the relinquishment, we have no choice but to affirm the judgment," the court said.

In other decisions, the court:

upheld the Douglas County conviction of Kelvin Breton for robbery;

affirmed the judgment of the Sarpy

County District Court in an auto insurance dispute between George Belek and Travelers Indemnity Co.

Burglary, Habitual Criminal Conviction Upheld By Court

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court, saying prisoners should not be allowed to endlessly appeal to the courts, upheld the burglary and habitual criminal conviction Act.

McColl said had it been the first time a standard criminal appeal, and the last two, including the one the court ruled on Friday, were for aid under the Nebraska Post Conviction Act.

Reichel had appealed the Lancaster County District Court conviction on the grounds that a previous case, used to convict him of being an habitual criminal, was in error.

That conviction was in 1958 and was for burglary. Reichel contended specifically he had not been granted the right to an attorney, which lead to his unjust conviction.

The high court, however, in an opinion written by Justice Hale McCown, noted it was the third time Reichel had appealed his last conviction to the courts.

Wife Is Shocked By Permissiveness In Current Literature

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "My wife loves to read, so as a silver wedding gift I opened an account to buy a new book once a week at the bookshop. She picks out a new book every Thursday and they put it on my bill. Then when she's read the book she gives it as a birthday gift to friends or relatives. She's shocked by the permissiveness in literature today and whenever she finds dirty words in a book she burns it in our fireplace. I tell her it's stupid to throw away money like that — actually setting fire to a five or six dollar book. But she says she's certainly not going to pass the book on to anyone else and that it's the only way to get rid of such trash. Isn't this silly?"

Answer: — Sounds so to me. See if you can't talk the shop into censoring her weekly selection. Tell them you won't pay the bill if they let her buy a book so naughty it winds up in the fireplace.

Question: — "Dad worked himself into his grave. He had a plumbing and heating firm and actually toiled 14 and 15 hours a day to get the firm onto a profitable basis. He died two years ago at 56, leaving Mom with the business which she now runs. Six months ago a jerk she had known years ago turned up. Mom went out with him a few times and then shocked my brother and me by marrying him. She says he's a fine, interesting gentleman, but I say he's a bum because he drinks like a fish, has no money, and says he doesn't see any point in working if he doesn't have to. Isn't Mom being disloyal to Dad?"

Answer: — Not necessarily.

Your dad presumably worked because he liked to work. And presumably he left everything to her because he wanted her to have it. It's too bad your mother couldn't have remarried someone of whom her children approve — but this often happens. The guy may

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One of the more progressive and constructive things done recently by the Legislature has been the early meeting of its Budget Committee. The committee is already holding informal hearings on state agency money requests for the 1972-73 year.

That may sound like a long way off but it really is just around the corner, in legislative terms. The Legislature will be meeting in January, 1972 and, in the past way of doing things, the budget committee would get underway shortly thereafter.

But by the time it had completed its hearings, the committee would be lucky to have its recommendations on the floor prior to adjournment. In '72, senators will be in their even-year short session of 60 days, not much time to hear and debate a budget.

The committee, of course, will not be able to settle anything prior to the formal session. For one thing, it cannot act formally until it receives the recommendations of the governor and this will not come prior to opening.

But by looking at preliminary requests now, the committee will have a good understanding of things and be able to move much more quickly after it receives the governor's recommendations. Hopefully, this will permit some discussion of the budget by the full Legislature, contrary to last year's fiasco in which the full body rubber-stamped the actions of its committee.

But even the procedural matters involved here will not be the most important aspect of the budgeting process. The all-important thing will be the level of appropriations approved by the committee and the full Legislature.

There is no question what Gov. J. James Exon will do. He will cut requests and he will pare the budgets down to get them within the framework of a sales and income tax rate that does not exceed current levels. If anything in state government is a certainty, this is it.

We hope that the committee does not again this year adopt the same position as the governor. We believe it is a mistake to set an arbitrary limit or ceiling on state spending as Exon has done.

If the committee can provide an adequate budget with existing tax rates, that would be the thing to do and, certainly, such an action would appeal to taxpayers. But the committee is shirking its responsibilities if it does not look at the needs of state agencies as well as the tax rates.

We are accumulating in many areas a backlog of needs that will ultimately come home to roost. In pollution control, recreation facilities, several areas of state inspections, higher education, capital construction, penal reform, conservation and others, we are short-changing areas of need, slowing the progress of the state and curtailing opportunity for future progress.

With Exon, we would have more of the same, not less. With the governor, we would fall further in arrears in a growing number of areas, accumulating problems for some future generation to solve. The governor is sincere in his efforts and his position enjoys a lot of popularity but this doesn't make him right.

He has said in the past that the tough decision to make is the one that says "no" to spending plans. Presumably, it is easy to give agencies most of what they want and let the tax rates fall where they might.

Of course, extremes should not be condoned and we would not advocate that departmental budgets be adopted as submitted. There is no question that a balance needs to be struck between the needs of agencies and the ability of taxpayers to pay for these needs.

But the difficult thing, the hard thing, is to provide the leadership that encourages progress and wins a reasonable measure of public support in the process. Exon's "no" is actually the easy answer, not the hard one.

It is easy to tell a taxpayer his taxes are not going to rise. It is hard to tell him the rates will go up and to convince him of why this should be done. Hopefully, the budget committee will adopt no arbitrary ceilings in advance but will look realistically at demands and at what the state can afford.

Hearings In Panama
On Interests Of U.S.

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee is preparing to hold hearings in Panama to find out whether the State Department is selling out U.S. interests in the Panama Canal.

Panama is seeking sovereignty over the famed canal. This is now the subject of delicate negotiations between the State Department and the Panamanian government.

But Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., chairman of the Panama Canal subcommittee, suspects the State Department is more anxious to appease Panamanian strongman Omar Torrijos than to uphold U.S. rights.

Murphy laid his worries before his parent Merchant Marine Committee on November 8 behind closed doors. He warned that the State Department may be giving away too much in Panama and asked for authority to send investigators to Panama to prepare for hearings.

"Concessions by the U.S.," he told his colleagues grumly, "are the order of the day." He said the U.S. apparently is going to give Panama almost everything it wants except for actual control and defense of the canal operations.

Down the drain would go the legal rights of U.S. citizens living in the Canal Zone, most commercial rights of U.S. corporations and a good deal of land belonging to the U.S., he said.

He pleaded that he didn't want to upset the negotiations, but "if we do not meet our responsibilities in these areas, no one will do it for us."

The committee approved Murphy's request. In response, he announced behind closed doors that he would hold hearings late this month in the U.S. then send staff members to Panama to arrange hearings on the spot. Among the witnesses he hopes to call, he said, are Defense Secretary Mel Laird, the State Department negotiators and Canal Zone governors, both past and present.

Murphy said he would also like to hear from Panamanian leaders, including Torrijos himself.

When the State Department got wind of Murphy's plans, the diplomats of Foggy Bottom howled as if someone had ripped the stripes off their striped pants.

Wrote Assistant Secretary David Abshire huffily to Murphy: "The presence of your committee in the Republic of Panama and/or the Canal Zone could seriously affect the course of these negotiations to the detriment of U.S. interests."

"The mere fact that hearings are being held on foreign soil constitutes an encroachment on the rights of the foreign government and the rights of its nationals."

Until the State Department abrogates those rights, however, the U.S. has sovereignty over the Canal Zone. This entitles Congress to hold hearings there. Murphy, therefore, has decided to go ahead with them.

House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., grumped to friends the other day that he was "going broke" traveling around the country to make speeches. With an eye on the White House, he has been accepting just about every speaking engagement he can get. He has received thousands of offers of financial help, he said, to finance his unannounced presidential campaign. But so far he has turned down all contributions.

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that goodness and repetitiveness of letters will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Keeping Faith

Lincoln, Neb.

In a recent Action Line, "M.W." of Lincoln asked the question: "If Adam and Eve had two sons, Cain and Abel, where did the boys get their wives?" The answer is obvious to anyone who reads Genesis 5:4, and should be equally obvious to Dr. Darrel Berg, who, incidentally, failed to answer M.W.'s question.

The only women from whom to choose a wife would have been their sisters, of whom there would have been many, as Adam lived over 800 years after their birth. The shocking part of Dr. Berg's statement is that he has the opinion that the story of Adam and Eve is only a myth. Either all of the Bible is the Word of God and is true and all of what it says did happen, or it is not the Word of God and we can discard all it says as words of men, including the story of Jesus.

A minister or pastor is to teach his people the Word of God and how to live by it. If he himself does not believe it, how can he teach others to follow it? If the Bible is taken away, we must also take away Jesus Christ; then the building that is left is nothing but a "whited sepulchre." I ask Dr. Berg, as a minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, to reconsider his statement and keep faith with the people who are counting on him to help them find the Way, the Truth and the Life.

the window and into the loving hands of new owners. His new home is far from Lincoln.

"Ajax" was introduced to the visiting poodles. Two were gray but it was the white one named "Blue" that took Ajax into her heart and life. They chased, leaped, scratched in joyous abandon, later to sprawl close in happy exhaustion. The two gray poodles ignored the newcomer in haughty disdain.

Mike, the big dog, watched the kitten in amused tolerance. At chow time, the whole kibble flew to the allotted corner. Ajax, being the smallest, couldn't get to first base, but soon learned that by crouching, he could creep under even the small dogs and eat fully of what the meal provided. Of course, he got his side dish of milk.

No sudden noise startled the kitten. I have been told by several pet shops that some white cats with blue eyes can feel vibrations but are born completely deaf. It seems an unfair trick by Mother Nature to deprive an animal of its protection.

The kitten was named "Ajax" because he was so white—and turned to Blue!

Cigarette Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

Can anyone on this earth tell me what it takes to get a new home finished? I wonder how many other people are in this same position.

We have a new home, purchased under the HUD 235 loan. If the taxpayers could see how their money is being spent to help pay for these homes, they would have it declared unconstitutional.

My house is eight months old. The contractor has not finished it, nor does he intend to. He and the real estate agent have their money. The loan company gets their payment every month. No one cares if we are satisfied or not. The worst part of this whole deal is that the FHA has approved all of this, so whom do we turn to now?

We have our unfinished home with three months left on our year's guarantee, which wasn't worth the paper it was written on.

I think some investigating should be done on these homes. Surely not all 235 homes can be as bad as this.

SIMON GRAY

They Had A Dream

In antebellum days, lumber was a booming business in the lower Mississippi Valley. It called for the labor of numerous slaves.

One of them was an unusual man named Simon Gray Gray, though a slave, could read and write better than most laboring-class whites and could handle the bulky lumber barges with superior skill.

He commanded barges delivering lumber from Natchez to New Orleans, he bossed white crews and acted as agent for his employer both in the purchase and sale of lumber to river cities and plantations.

In his work, Gray also transacted business and transported supplies in his own name, and amassed considerable money for a Mississippi slave.

Gray was owned by Andrew Donnan, a merchant and blacksmith, who hired him out to lumberman Andrew Brown in 1835.

By 1838, Gray had won the respect and confidence of Brown and was placed in charge of a crew bringing logs down the Yazoo River to Brown's sawmill at Natchez.

In his pocket, Gray carried a pass from Brown authorizing him to travel without interference. Gray was also entrusted with small sums of money to pay his crew and purchase logs upriver.

In 1844, Brown opened a wholesale and retail outlet in New Orleans and Gray was put to work commanding barges on their runs from Natchez to New Orleans. He was the company's chief boatman from 1845 to 1862, according to Brown, "was a first-rate fellow."

Gray's crews numbered 10 to 20 men and included both slaves and white rivermen. He kept not only their pay records but records of his buying and selling for the company as well. He often was called on to exercise considerable judgment and initiative. On what were known as "coasting trips," he called on riverside plantations soliciting orders and selling his extra lumber for the best price there would command.

He did well and was held in such esteem by Brown that Brown purchased his family from a nearby slave-owner in 1850 for $500. He did it, apparently, as a simple act of friendship and kindness. Then he rented a house for the reunited Browns in Natchez and paid the rent himself.

Now idle, Gray lived with his wife and family until Vicksburg fell in 1863. After that, his name disappeared from company records.

Where he went, nobody knows, but his departure was final. In 1865, Brown noted this in a list of uncollectable accounts which included a debt owing him by Simon Gray.

Gray prospered in his business, and in 1856 expanded it in a move which led him to use Gray in another way. Entrusting Gray with large sums of money, he sent him to Yazoo City to buy large quantities of lumber from a sawmill there.

From 1857 until 1863, Gray worked in the Yazoo swamps, bossing timber crews when he wasn't taking barges to New Orleans.

Back on the river in 1860 and 1861, Gray resumed his work on the barges and managed to turn a profit in some personal transactions. On one occasion, he bought a load of cordwood for $3 a cord and took it to New Orleans where he made a profit of $1.30 a cord.

With the outbreak of the Civil War, lumber became an uncertain business. Brown was closed down when the Union forces captured New Orleans and shut off his market.

Grays' status changed in 1853 when he became free in all but the strictly legal sense and got a raise in pay. Instead of $8 a month and $5 for each trip, Gray now was paid $20 a month, the same as white boatmen.

He bought a flatboat and in his spare time bought sand and

If it didn't hurt so much, it would be funny, for the Republicans are now backing controls, and the old Democratic New Dealers, who invented them, are arguing for a little more freedom.

Like Meany, Nixon knew all along that the ideological approach to trade didn't keep the Soviet government from getting even the most sophisticated computers and scientific equipment from West Germany and Japan.

Nixon reads the returns — economic as well as political. In the third quarter of 1971, the United States had the largest balance of payments deficit — the difference between what the country takes in and what it spends abroad — in the history of the Republic.

He is a traditional Republican. Every party has its nightmare, and the nightmare of the Republican party is economic trouble — after all, the Republicans were out of power for 28 out of 56 years because the Democrats exploited and ran successfully against "the Hoover depression," and nobody knows this better than Richard Nixon.

And now, confronted with a potentially disastrous financial and trade problem in the world, he has finally scrapped his common sense.

Wife Is Shocked By Permissiveness In Current Literature

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "My wife loves to read, so as a silver wedding gift I opened an account to buy a new book once a week at the bookshop. She picks out a new book every Thursday and they put it on my bill. Then when she's read the book she gives it as a birthday gift to friends or relatives. She's shocked by the permissiveness in literature today and whenever she finds dirty words in a book she burns it in our fireplace. I tell her it's stupid to throw away money like that — actually setting fire to a five or six dollar book. But she says she's certainly not going to pass the book on to anyone else and that it's the only way to get rid of such trash. Isn't this silly?"

Answer: — Sounds so to me. See if you can't talk the shop into censoring her weekly selection. Tell them you won't pay the bill if they let her buy a book so naughty it winds up in the fireplace.

Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Now it is a tribute to the intelligence of men that no one thinks He was talking about the material abundance we enjoy today. Everybody knows He was talking about something else.

But what else? What could Christ add to your possessions? What can He give men that might account for the logical distinction we readily make between a life of abundance and the abundant life?

Himself! That's it. That's all. Precisely what He said: "I am come that..."

To know Him and to know the meaning His Life has for our lives is to discover the abundant life!

Does your family use the Church as faithfully as the market?

Butz Hits Welfare, Food Programs In April Talk

Washington (P) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., issued Friday excerpts from a speech by Earl L. Butz in which Butz was quoted as saying President Nixon's welfare program "is so far out that even Democrats in Congress won't buy it."

Butz, nominated by Nixon to be secretary of agriculture, also was quoted as saying the food stamp program, which is administered by the Agriculture Department, is "just short of ridiculous in some parts of this country."

Proxmire said the speech was delivered in Minneapolis April 26, before a National Agriculture and Advertising and Marketing Association seminar. The speech was sponsored by the General Motors Corp. speakers bureau, he said.

In one excerpt, Butz said if the nation were to decide to get rid of fertilizers blamed for polluting streams and go back to organic farming, "someone must decide which 50 million persons must starve."

Greater Threat

Proxmire said, "Earl Butz, as secretary of agriculture, could be a far greater threat to the environment than to the family farm."

In Detroit, a GM spokesman said Butz is one of about 10 persons on the GM speakers bureau and speaks mainly to agriculture-oriented groups.

Proxmire issued a statement along with the excerpts from the Minneapolis speech.

In one instance Butz referred to Florida hearings by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., two years ago, and also to a trip of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to Alaska to, in Butz' word, "see the starving Eskimos..."

"Out of that came a food stamp plan so generous, so extensive, that it's just short of ridiculous in some parts of this country," Butz said.

"Out of it came a welfare program that President Nixon is recommending to the Congress that's so far out that even the Democrats in Congress won't buy it."

On another subject, Butz said a real threat to American agriculture "comes from the environmentalists or from the do-gooders or from consumerism or whatever you want to call it."

Chemicals Needed

He said modern agriculture cannot continue to produce adequate amounts of safe and wholesome food without chemicals and antibiotics.

And he said that what he called propaganda and agitation from environmentalists is scaring people unnecessarily about the alleged threat of DDT.

"We can go back to organic farming in this country if we must — we know how to do it," he said. "However, before we move in that direction, someone must decide which 50 million of our people will starve!"

He said a lot is said about DDT runoff into Lake Michigan but not much about the benefits of DDT.

"We don't hear much about malaria having been virtually wiped off the face of the earth," he said. "We don't hear much about human health having been improved."

In a statement, Proxmire asked:

"Is this the sort of man we want to place in charge of making sure that no DES residues are found in our beef, that pesticides are properly regulated, that the department buys only the best produce for distribution under child nutrition programs, that our meat and poultry inspection programs have teeth?"

Now you'd expect anyone with a handle like General Sir Mallalieu Fitzbutress to knock a little sense into those kids, right? Well, the old boy starts swinging all right, but rather than breaking heads, he breaks all the conventional rules of middle-class, middle-aged behavior.

He grows a beard. He dresses sloppily. He stops wearing shoes and he stops bathing. Finally he takes up residence in a tree, inspiring members of parliament, clergymen and others to do the same.

The result of the wise old general's tactics is that his daughter realizes that, after all, it would be nice to have a husband to help in the rearing of her new-born son; And the general's son cuts his hair and decides to marry the maid, who is suspiciously round with "creamy butter."

The success of the comedy depends on the ability of the audience to laugh at themselves. And, as the man at the head of the couch says, that's healthy.

But don't go to the play expecting slapstick. Ustinov wrote the play as much to preach as to entertain. For example, the general's line, "It's the duty of the parent to be like a bone to a puppy, for his children to sharpen their teeth on."

The Lincoln Community Playhouse production is adequate. Marie Muffley's performance as Lady Fitzbutress stands out, as does Britt Davis's as the vicar. Robert O. Stuewig does a solid job in the most demanding role, the general.

There were, however, a few opening-night flaws. Early in the play Sam Ridge, a Lincoln High student playing Robert, the general's son, zipped through his lines so fast one had to rivet all attention on what he was saying to stay with the play.

His appearance in the first two acts of the play was also disturbing because of the apparent falsity of his beard, which he "shaved" off for the last act.

"Halfway up the Tree" will be the last Lincoln Community Playhouse production at the 18th and L location. The next three productions of the 1971-72 season will be staged in the new playhouse at 56th and Normal.

The play will be on stage Saturday, Nov. 28-26, Dec. 3-5 and 9-12. Friday and Saturday shows begin at 8:30 p.m. Sunday shows begin at 7:30 p.m.

Fieldhouse Group Picks Committee

By The Associated Press

A group calling itself "Nebraskans for the Coliseum" Friday organized a steering committee for "the sole purpose of seeing that the University of Nebraska Coliseum is built as soon as possible," according to one of its attorneys.

The general chairman is former Fremont mayor Milt Ebers.

The meeting was held Friday in the office of Lincoln attorney David Tews, who said his law firm has been retained by the committee to support the coliseum project approved by the 1971 legislature.

The coliseum, or fieldhouse, was provided for in a bill increasing by five cents per package — to 13 cents — the state cigarette tax.

The additional revenue, after funding a building at the Beatrice State Horne, was to be divided evenly between an NU fieldhouse and a new state office building.

"The committee is taking no position one way or the other on the office building," Tews said.

The cigarette tax bill was passed over the veto of Gov. J. E. Exon and Exon has since renewed his opposition, suggesting that the money be put in the state general fund.

Exon has suggested he might support a compromise involving a bond issue with part of the cigarette tax money used to pay off the bond and the remainder going into the general fund.

Tews estimated that a six-year, $12 million bond issue could be paid off at $2.4 million per year, or $1 million less than the fieldhouse portion of the added revenue would amount to annually.

The question of a bond issue was discussed at Friday's organizational meeting, Tews said, and "the reaction seemed to be favorable."

"It seems to be the only feasible alternative method right now," Tews said.

A workshop sustained "considerable" damage and a Lincoln fireman was treated for minor injuries and released from Lincoln General Hospital as the result of a fire Friday afternoon at the Doyle London residence at 7108 Douglas, according to district fire chief, Neil McPherson.

McPherson said that Terry Biggerstaff received minor injuries when he came into contact with some bare electrical wires while extinguishing the blaze.

McPherson said that London's 12-year-old son, Mike, smelled smoke in the garage which was being used as a workshop and notified his father who turned on the alarm.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation, McPherson said.

DEATH CAR . . . crumpled wreckage all that is left.

Professor Killed In Two-Car Crash

Wayne E. Gregg, a 32-year-old assistant professor of sociology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, was killed early Friday morning in a two-car crash on Nebraska Highway 48th and 40th in a light sports car when the collision occurred shortly after midnight.

Police said Dr. Gregg, who lived at 5007 Cresthaven Dr., was eastbound on Nebraska Highway between 48th and 40th in a light sports car when the collision occurred shortly after midnight.

The westbound car was driven by Miss Nelson, according to police. Investigating officers said the point of impact occurred in the lane of the east-bound vehicle, which overturned after the collision.

No determination has been made whether charges will be filed in the fatal traffic death, according to chief Deputy Lancaster County Atty. William Blue.

Dr. Gregg has taught at the university since 1968. He earned his B.A. and M.A. degrees

'Halfway Up The Tree' A Play To Chuckle At

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

"Halfway up the tree" is a wry comedy of the manners of modern life. It's a play to chuckle at.

Written by the ubiquitous Peter Ustinov, the play concerns what happens when a British general retires after four years service in Malaya. He finds his children have (horror) turned hippie.

Now you'd expect anyone with a handle like General Sir Mallalieu Fitzbutress to knock a little sense into those kids, right? Well, the old boy starts swinging all right, but rather than breaking heads, he breaks all the conventional rules of middle-class, middle-aged behavior.

He grows a beard. He dresses sloppily. He stops wearing shoes and he stops bathing. Finally he takes up residence in a tree, inspiring members of parliament, clergymen and others to do the same.

The result of the wise old general's tactics is that his daughter realizes that, after all, it would be nice to have a husband to help in the rearing of her new-born son; And the general's son cuts his hair and decides to marry the maid, who is suspiciously round with "creamy butter."

The success of the comedy depends on the ability of the audience to laugh at themselves. And, as the man at the head of the couch says, that's healthy.

But don't go to the play expecting slapstick. Ustinov wrote the play as much to preach as to entertain. For example, the general's line, "It's the duty of the parent to be like a bone to a puppy, for his children to sharpen their teeth on."

The Lincoln Community Playhouse production is adequate. Marie Muffley's performance as Lady Fitzbutress stands out, as does Britt Davis's as the vicar. Robert O. Stuewig does a solid job

Wedding In Omaha

At a 7:30 o'clock ceremony on Friday evening, Nov. 19, the marriage of Miss Julie Ann Hasselbalch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Tyrell, to Frank DeLong Jacobsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herald Jacobsen, all of Omaha, was solemnized at the Dundee Presbyterian Church in Omaha. Dr. Edward Stimson read the lines of the service.

Miss Nancy Kathryn Hasselbalch of Omaha attended her sister as maid of honor; and the bridesmaids included Miss Mary Jo Thrapp of Omaha, Miss Linda Simonson of Mullen, Miss Donna Mitchell of Fremont, and Miss Mary Hasselbalch of Omaha.

Robert Jacobsen of Omaha served his brother as best man; and the groomsmen included John Hausmann, Steve Adams and Phillip Johnson, all of Omaha, and James Carstens of Glen Ellyn, Ill.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown fashioned of Ivory satin accented with Venise lace. The Empire bodice, designed with a high Edwardian collar, and long lace-cuffed Bishop sleeves was smoothly fitted above the A-line skirt banded with lace at the hem. A chapel train edged in lace added back interest to the gown. A Camelot cap held to the head her train-length veil and shoulder-length blusher of silk illusion, and she carried a nosegay of cream colored roses and gypsophelia.

Mr. Jacobsen and his bride, both of whom were graduated from the University of Nebraska, will reside in Omaha.

Suburbia Is In A Festive Mood

It's beginning to look a lot like November, with winter coats, scarves and mittens becoming more and more apparent every day; and come next Thursday, we predict that it will also begin to smell a lot like November—especially in the kitchens of homes where traditional Thanksgiving dinners are being prepared.

Despite the chill in the seasonably brisk winds social activities in Lincoln's suburban areas have continued unabated during the very recent past; and all indications are that the activity will increase before it diminishes (perhaps around Jan. 2, 1972.)

A very festive gathering took place Thursday evening at the Happy Hollow Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Larsen and family. The center of attention just happened to be Mr. and Mrs. Larsen's son, Robert, who observed his seventh birthday yesterday.

The day—early celebration took the form of a family get-together, and on hand to wish the young man a "happy birthday" were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Malek and Mr. and Mrs. John Larsen; his uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. John Larsen, Jr., Miss Mary Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwab, and Mrs. Jerry Malek; and daughters, Rosemary, Julianne and Angela; his sisters, Jean Ann and Carol Lynn; and, a very important member of the family, the Larsens' year-old poodle Pogo.

A congratulatory banquet was on Friday evening's agenda for Meadow Lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Zentic, and a number of other very important people. As everyone knows, Mr. Zentic is head coach of the East High School football team which recently earned the state championship title; and the dinner, which took place at the Elks Club, honored Mr. Zentic and, of course, the members of the team. The festive event was sponsored by the Clock Tower East Merchants.

Mr. and Mrs. Zentic and children, Sheri Lynn, Susan Jean, Michael Lee and Mick Allen, will be among those Lincoln residents who will be doing a bit of holiday traveling next week. The Zentic family will motor to their former home, Shenandoah, Iowa, where they will be Thanksgiving Day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barry.

Also taking to the road for the holiday weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hopkins and children, Kristi, Tracey and Brian. Their destination will be Manhattan, Kan., where they will be the guests of Mr. Hopkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hopkins.

On Thanksgiving Day, the Lincoln travelers will take part in a family reunion which will be held at the Warren Hopkins' home, and which will be highlighted by a traditional holiday dinner. Also taking part in the fun will be Mr. Hopkins' brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hopkins, Jr. and sons, Craig and Verne, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hopkins and children, Mandy, Alice and Larry all of Manhattan; and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Layton of Topeka, Kan.

Incidentally, we understand that the television set at the Hopkins home will be tuned in to the NU-Oklahoma game—despite the fact that most of those who will be in attendance are Kansas or Kansas State fans.

Evening Ceremony

On Friday evening, Nov. 19, the marriage of Miss Rita Ann Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Monroe Roberts, to Steven Bitters Black, son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert S. Black, Jr. of Omaha took place at the Chandler Acres Baptist Church in Omaha. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Richard R. Lindsay of Wichita, Kan.

Miss Denise Arthur of Omaha was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant.

Michael Duffy Black served his brother as best man; and Dr. Barry Turner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Warren H. Cooke of Omaha, and J. M. Roberts, Jr., brother of the bride, seated the guests.

Candlelight satin fashioned the bride's gown, which was designed in the Empire mode. Appliques of reembroidered Alencon lace accented the bodice which featured a rounded neckline and long, tapered sleeves; and the A-line skirt was completed with a cathedral train. Appliques of the lace were repeated on the floor-length veil, which was held in place with a pearl comb; and she carried a white prayer book and an arrangement of white roses and chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the couple will reside in Omaha.

The bride will be graduated in January from the University of Nebraska School of Nursing. Mr. Black is a senior in the University of Nebraska School of Medicine, and he is a member of Phi Chi medical fraternity.

Four Secretaries Receive Honors

Thursday evening was "congratulations" night for the Cornhusker Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

Most mistakes by declarer flow from a failure to plan the play — whether at the start of the hand or in the course of it.

Having recognized this, he would have won the spade lead

This tendency to proceed without planning is more a matter of bad training than bad judgment, and all too often this approach leads to a disappointing result.

For example, look at South's method of play in this hand. He won the spade lead with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps, and played a diamond to the queen, which held.

Locked in dummy, there was nothing South could do to salvage the situation. He had to lose a spade, a diamond and two clubs to go down one.

But had he looked far enough ahead, South would have realized that drawing trumps at once was not the proper line of play. He would have known, had he weighed the matter fully, that he could insure the contract if West had the ace of diamonds or if East had the ace of clubs.

There is nothing unusual about the correct line of play — it is simply a matter of making the right plays in the right order.

Abby: needs help

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here in one of my usual stupors — stuffed as a pig!

I am a compulsive eater. I cannot seem to stop eating once I start, and I start for any number of reasons. If I'm bored, unhappy, troubled, worried or angry. I say, "Oh, to hell with everything," and I head for the fridge to "treat" myself.

Of course I have become so repulsive to look at that my husband has lost all interest in me, altho I think he still loves me.

Clothes? I refuse to go shopping. I'm too ashamed of myself to even take my coat off in public. Sure, I would love to lose weight and be a normal human being again, but there are no Weight Watchers in my city. And no psychiatrists either. The physicians in this town say, "Here's a diet, and enclose your name and address. I want to personally help you."

DEAR ABBY: I'm still titling over that letter about the cow who would permit only men to milk her. Of course, men can win any milking contest hands down. Solving the cow's problem may take some pull, but for the right person it should be in the bag. Sign me "BO VINE" in SEATTLE

Thanksgiving Day Clash A Classic In Many Ways

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Being 10-0 and ranked No. 1 and being 9-0 and ranked No. 2, respectively, is enough to put the Thanksgiving Day battle between Nebraska and Oklahoma in the "classic" category.

But it's also a "classic" in that Oklahoma is No. 1 in the nation in total offense and Nebraska is No. 1 in total defense.

The game matches a Sooner ground attack that is averaging 481.4 yards per game against a Husker defense that has allowed opponents only 70.5 yards per outing on the ground.

You've got an Oklahoma team that's averaging 563.2 yards per contest in total offense against a Nebraska defense that is yielding a norm of only 171.7.

It's an Oklahoma offense that's averaging 45 points a game against an NU defense that is giving up only 6.4 per game.

Creighton Effort Pleases Sutton

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Coach Eddie Sutton said his Creighton Bluejays would play a different game this season and he proved it here Friday night.

The Creighton varsity used a fast-break and press effectively at Civic Auditorium to down its freshman basketball counterparts, 91-70, before 2,576 fans. Last year, the Bluejays were known as a deliberate ball control squad.

Although Sutton and freshman coach Jocko Icisen substituted freely throughout the contest, the new Creighton style was prevalent.

The Bluejay yearlings were constantly plagued by poor field goal shooting and turnover. The freshman only connected on 23 of 63 from the field for 36.5 shooting per cent while the varsity made 38 of 75 for 50.7 per cent.

The fresh jumped to a 5-2 lead but the varsity went ahead, 8-7 on Bimbo Pietro's free throw.

Then the varsity reeled off five straight points and were never pressed. The freshman continued to falter but kept the varsity from completely breaking open the game by using its fast break and press.

Sutton indicated he was pleased although he termed the defense as the biggest disappointment.

"We didn't do as good a job on the defensive boards or playing on man-to-man defense," Sutton said. "The play was ragged at times, but we expected it being this early in the year."

"Everyone played well and I hate to single out one player, but I thought (Ralph) Bobik did an exceptional job," said Sutton.

Bobik came into the game late in the first half and scored 13 points and grabbed eight rebounds over a span of seven minutes. He finished with 21 points and 12 rebounds to lead both categories.

Another point that displeased Sutton was fouls.

"Although we were super aggressive on defense like I want we made too many careless fouls," he pointed out, "but we've got 14 or 15 practices before our first game with Wisconsin State and we hope to improve."

The freshman were led by 6-8 1/2 Doug Brookins of Goshen, Ind. who tallied 19 points. Teammates Wayne Groves had 11 points and nine rebounds, Charles Butler 14 points, Dave Terek 12 and seven rebounds and Wayne Groves 11 points and nine rebounds.

Schuyler sophomore Gene Harmon finished with 12 points and eight rebounds.

"We didn't do as good a job on the defensive boards or

Oklahoma is averaging 8.9 yards per play rushing and 7.4 per play overall, the best averages since the Army teams of 1944 and 1945. And the Sooners are averaging 13.1 yards per passing attempt.

Aside from defense one of the ways you stop such an explosive offense is with ball control and at that game, Nebraska is the best in the nation.

The Huskers are averaging 83.1 plays per game rushing and passing with their balanced offense that is averaging 257 yards rushing and 183.9 passing.

A study by the NCAA Service Bureau reveals that the Husker Black Shirts have set up 14 touchdowns, forced opponents to give up the ball 139 times without scoring, the best in the nation in that department, and let opponents get inside the NU 20 only 12 times in 10 games.

The drivers of the two high-scoring offenses (NU is averaging 38.9 points per game), Jack Milden of Oklahoma and Jerry Tagge of Nebraska have glowing individual statistics.

Biologist Questions Whether Genetic Manipulation Is Wise

A University of Minnesota developmental biologist Friday said that man undoubtedly will be able to manipulate his life genetically in the future, but he asserted there is a "serious question" whether he should do so.

"The very survival of the human race or any other species," said Dr. Robert G. McKinnell, "depends upon genetic or hereditary diversity."

Dr. McKinnell spoke on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus as the first speaker in a series during the year on the topic, "Where is America a Going?"

"Upon the diversity of individuals in the human race," he said, "hinges the adaptability of the race to survive environmental changes."

Discussing the biological revolution and the breakthroughs in so-called "genetic engineering," Dr. McKinnell suggested that cancer may be wiped out sometime in the future genetically like polio was wiped out by virus vaccines in the last decade.

He said $1.6 billion is being earmarked to find a cancer cure, but this is not being done for social reasons but because cancer, like polio, has "tragic consequences for the individual and his family."

More overriding problems facing the human race, and its survival, Dr. McKinnell suggested, is over-population, pollution and the future spectre of world starvation.

"The finding of a cure for cancer is a trivial matter for the human race as compared to the more serious ones of population, pollution and starvation."

As dramatic as the biological revolution has been, Dr. McKinnell said, there are larger problems for the world populations and the human race, itself, to be solved by sociologists, political scientists and economists.

The Lancaster County District Court will be asked Tuesday to allow the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) to become a third party to a suit over the constitutionality of the state's textbook loan law.

Lincoln attorney Ted Kessner, representing the association said Friday a hearing has been scheduled before District Court Judge Bartlett E. Boyles for Tuesday afternoon.

Earlier this year, the Nebraska Legislature passed a law which authorizes the state's public schools to loan non-religious textbooks to private school students.

In return, the lending school would be able to claim up to $15 reimbursement in state aid for each student helped.

After its passage, however, State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley, acting on the advice of the State Justice Department, said he would not allow the law to be implemented.

Subsequently, Omaha attorney Richard Hotz filed a request with the Nebraska Supreme Court. Specifically, he asked the High Court to accept the constitutional question as an original action.

Request Denied

The request was denied, and Hotz, acting in behalf of the William D. Gaffney family, also of Omaha, filed suit in Lancaster County District Court in an effort to reach the Supreme Court through standard appeal channels.

The State Education Association is attempting to handicapped children in low-income areas.

Vontz said although the state's total was up, some Nebraska counties will experience a drop in funds, while others will receive more.

$200,000 More

Douglas County, he said, will get some $200,000 more than it received last year, while Lancaster County's total is up $57,000.

Vontz also said the state stands to gain during the 1973 fiscal year, because of a national floor established for states by Congress.

The floor, which goes into effect next year, will reduce allotments to 10 states, while putting more funds into the programs in the other 40, he said.

Nebraska is one of the 40. Number Of Children

Vontz noted that the grants are allotted on the number of children in Aid to Families of Dependent Children (ADC), children and low-income families.

He said the state can also expect a "significant change next year" when 1970 census data goes into use in figuring the allotments based on low-income numbers.

The 1972 grants were figured on a formula using 1960 census figures, he said.

Collegiate Football Schedule Curbed By Thanksgiving Weekend Showdowns

By Associated Press

Rose Bowl-bound Michigan No. 3 in the nation and undefeated, plays its regular season finale against Big 10 rival Ohio State Saturday in a college football schedule curbed by upcoming Thanksgiving weekend showdowns.

The Wolverines are putting their 10-0 record on the line at home against the 6-3 Buckeyes, last year's representative at Pasadena, while on the West Coast, Stanford, ranked 18th in the nation, battles California for the other Rose Bowl berth.

The Stanford-California game, as far as bowls go, however, should be taken lightly. Even if California beats Stanford, the Golden Bears would still have to win a court battle with the NCAA which put the team on probation earlier this year.

Also there is a tough three-way race for the Ivy League crown. Cornell, tied at 7-1 with Dartmouth after last week's setback by the Indians, meets Penn, 2-6, and Dartmouth takes on 4-4 Princeton, Columbia, one game back, could take the title if the Lions win against Brown and the front-runners both lose.

Joining Michigan and Stanford among the ranked teams in action is No. 6 Penn State, which takes its 9-0 record to Pitt, 3-6. Seventh-ranked and once-defeated Notre Dame goes against No. 14 Louisiana State.

The game, to be nationally televised by ABC at 8 p.m. EST, apparently will be the last of the year for the Irish. Coach Ara Parseghian announced Thursday that his team had voted to sit out the post-season play.

Notre Dame's decision opened some interesting bowl possibilities, one of them the Cotton Bowl where Penn State could meet Texas. But Nittany Lions Coach Joe Paterno declined to look past Saturday's game with Pitt.

Top-ranked Nebraska and No. 2 Oklahoma are sitting out this weekend awaiting the Thanksgiving Day clash to determine whether the Cornhuskers will retain the national college crown.

Nebraska is expected to clash in the Orange Bowl with No. 4 Alabama while the Sooners probably will meet No. 5 Auburn in the Sugar Bowl.

Both 10-0 Alabama and 9-0 Auburn are idle Saturday, priming for their Nov. 27 power struggle at Auburn.

No. 8 Georgia plays its season finale against Georgia Tech Thanksgiving Day. Other ranked teams idle Saturday are No. 12 Texas, which travels to Texas A&M Thursday, and No. 20 Mississippi, which takes on Mississippi State the same day.

To be nationally televised by ABC preceding the Notre Dame-LSU game is the Southern Cal-UCLA scramble beginning at 3:30 p.m. EST. Southern Cal is ranked No. 15.

Other top games Saturday include another Big 10 clash between two teams with 6-4 records — No. 19 Michigan State and unranked Northwestern; No. 17 Arkansas at home to Texas Tech; No. 11 Tennessee at Kentucky and 10th-ranked Colorado hosting Air Force.

Ninth-ranked Arizona State meets San Jose State, No. 13 Toledo takes on Kent State and No. 16 Houston faces Miami of Florida.

—TUMBLING EVENT CLINCHES CROWN—

Second Straight Win To Knight Gymnasts

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln Southeast, behind the first-place performances of Bill Marshall on the horizontal bar and Larry Gerard on the still rings, plus a trio of tumblers who all finished in the top ten in the final event, captured the team title at the state high school gymnastics meet which opened two days of competition at East High Friday.

The Knights of first-year coach Jim Hesson held a slim lead of less than four points going into the tumbling competition.

But Scott Roth placed second, Mike Ash third and Gary Jeurnik ninth in the field of 33 performers to boost Southeast to nearly a 10-point victory over runnerup Omaha South.

It was the second successive Southeast state team championship and the third in the last four state meets for the Knights.

Labeling Kansas, winner of league meet for the past four years, as the team to catch, Reta said each year the league is drawing closer to the Jayhawks.

"We're making progress, but KU is still going to be a power," Reta says. "But our kids have been working real hard and I hope can give a good account of themselves this year."

Wylie, injured in the Southern Cal game, has seen limited action since then with Bell taking over as starter in the Texas game.

Fairbanks called Friday's practice a "real good one." The Sooner defense spent a long time working on the screen pass and draw. "These two plays are ones we think that Nebraska uses real well," said Fairbanks.

Oklahoma also worked on punting with Wylie and John Carroll handling the chores.

Fairbanks said that the Sooners will practice Saturday morning for about an hour and a half.

Horse Show Opens Saturday

The Fourth Annual Nebraska Horse Trials Association Hunter and Jumper Show will open at 8 a.m. at the State Fair Coliseum Saturday.

The first session Saturday concludes at noon with the second session running from 1 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday's activities begin at 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 5:30 p.m.

Hunting Clock

Democrats Drawn To Curtis Test

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Not in 30 years has a U.S. senatorial contest in Nebraska drawn as many Democratic contenders as already have emerged for the 1972 primary.

State Sen. Wayne W. Ziebarth's recent candidacy announcement raised to five the number of announced bidders for nomination to the seat to which Republican Sen. Carl T. Curtis seeks renomination and re-election.

Further, the books are not yet closed, and State Democratic Chairman Hess Dyas would not be surprised to see at least two more names added to the list.

There has not been such Democratic interest in a senatorial primary since 1942 when seven Democrats filed. One was Scottsbluff's Terry Carpenter, one of the current candidates. He ran third in that 1942 contest, won by Omaha broadcaster Foster May.

Three Others

Besides Carpenter and Ziebarth, the announced Democratic contenders include Wallace C. Peterson and Donald L. Ferguson of Lincoln, and Mrs. Phyllis Person Lyons of McCook.

Possible contenders include former Gov. Frank Morrison of Omaha, agricultural economist Burt Evans of Lincoln and State Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh. Don Search of Kearney State College has been mentioned, but is regarded now as a more likely candidate for U.S. representative.

Sen. Curtis has drawn one firm challenger on the GOP ticket in Mrs. Philip R. Kneifel, Omaha educator and widow of Neligh. Search of Kearney State College has been mentioned, but is regarded now as a more likely candidate for U.S. representative.

Sen. Curtis has drawn one firm challenger on the GOP ticket in Mrs. Philip R. Kneifel, Omaha educator and widow of Neligh. Search of Kearney State College has been mentioned, but is regarded now as a more likely candidate for U.S. representative.

Primary elections in which an incumbent Republican senator is involved have not normally drawn this much attention, at least in modern times.

Hruska Unopposed

Sen. Roman Hruska was unopposed in both 1958 and 1964 primaries, and drew only token opposition last year. Sen. Curtis was unopposed in 1960 and 1966.

The casual observer could conclude there is a feeling that Curtis next year will be vulnerable to an upset.

Dyas says he is certain the candidates "would not be letting themselves in for all this hard work and effort" if they did not foresee such a possibility.

Dyas sees three factors as encouraging the Curtis challengers — the closeness of the Hruska-Morrison race last year, indications of a "growing disillusionment" among Republicans, and a possible detriment to Curtis from his tie-in with a Republican president who, to all indications, has forgotten about rural America and has written off agriculture."

Hruska Wins

Hruska won over Morrison 240,894 to 217,681 in 1970. The relative closeness of that race "perked up a lot of people's attention," Dyas says. However, the Democratic party chief says he regards Curtis as a stronger candidate than Hruska. "If they (Curtis and Hruska) were running against each other, I would probably put my money on Curtis."

Dyas says he picks up from several sources evidence of GOP dissatisfaction with Curtis — a feeling that Curtis has been in Washington too long "and that he's not doing a job for the state, for Republicans or for anybody."

However, Curtis has shown no signs of ballot box weakness in his previous senatorial outings. In 1954 he defeated Democrat Keith Neville about 255,000 to 162,000; in 1960 he won over Robert B. Conrad 352,000 to 245,000, and in 1966 he defeated Morrison 296,000 to 187,000.

While the lively Democratic race now developing will create interest and enthusiasm, Dyas says there are pitfalls. One is the divisiveness which can result from a hard fought primary. The other is the financial impact on party contributors, many of whom will find themselves approached by a variety of presidential and other candidates, out to raise the money it takes to fund a campaign. Dyas said he hopes the money-raising activity "doesn't get out of hand."

Vasectomy Clinic Available Here

If a family is complete, "permanent" methods of birth control should be available to family members, according to Greg Farstrup, vasectomy counselor at the Family Planning Center, 3830 Adams St.

Federally-funded through the Office of Economic Opportunity and administered through the Nebraska Family Health Assn., a vasectomy clinic has been in operation since September.

Farstrup explained, sterilization has not been available to low-income persons on a wide scale. He said that a general practitioner charges $75-$100 for performing the operation, while a urologist might charge as much as $150.

The clinic follows the OEO guideline for low income persons which is based on yearly earnings of $3800 for a family of four. The fees charged by the clinic for a vasectomy are based on a percentage of total income.

The clinic is a "counseling

doctors in the community who performs the operation as an out-patient procedure in his office. Farstrup added that many doctors are reluctant to do vasectomies on young people, and the final decision is made by the patient himself, he said.

Farstrup first became interested in family planning as a Peace Corps volunteer in Ceylon. He feels that the overpopulation problems stem from the "middle class families having extra children," but it is the low-income people who are "feeling the pinch."

The population problem is "not an issue" when we talk to our patients, Farstrup added. It is an "individual and a personal" matter, he said.

Although the clinic has performed only three vasectomies since its opening, Farstrup reported that there have been increased inquiries daily as information of this service is becoming more readily available to the public.

Stocks Remain Broadly Lower

New York (UPI) — Stock market prices made a modest recovery but still remained broadly lower Friday as investors continued to manifest concern about the international monetary situation and Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic policies.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 4.68 at 810.67.

Investors reacted negatively to the sharp drop of the U.S. dollar in international monetary markets after the introduction of a bill in Congress calling for a gold-price hike, analysts said. They also noted investors were discouraged by labor's disappointment with Phase 2.

"The market today is still suffering from the weakness of Thursday, which was prompted by an unexpected evidence of performance by the institutions," said Bradbury Thurlow, an analyst at Hopper, Watson & Co.

Thurlow said the institutions had bought heavily real estate investment stocks and when one of these companies forecast a decline in their earnings, institutions hurried to sell, and the prices of mortgage investment stocks collapsed.

Mortgage investment issues mostly continued their decline Friday, although a few registered slight gains.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks sank .31 to 504.7.

Big Board volume was 12,42 million shares, compared with 12,02 million Thursday.

There were 354 advances and 1,016 declines out of 1,672 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 4 new yearly highs and 169 new yearly lows.

The Associated Press stock average dipped 23 to 264.1, with 1,000 of its 2,800 and utilities off 1.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell .52 to 91.63.

Ninety-four big blocks of 10,000 shares or more were traded on the Big Board, biggest was 22,400 shares of Caterpillar Tractor at 19.75.

Airlines, oils, utilities, mail-order, rail and motors were mixed. All other stock categories were off.

Twenty-eight big Board was Caterpillar, Tractor, etc., 17.5 at 19.15.

American Stock Exchange prices also lost ground. The Amex price change slipped .14 to 13.75, volume was 3,232,000 shares, up 1,923 million shares Thursday. There were 214 advances and 673 declines out of 1,133 issues traded.

Government bonds were lower, and corporates were mixed.

The market today is still suffering from the weakness of Thursday, which was prompted by an unexpected evidence of performance by the institutions," said Bradbury Thurlow, an analyst at Hopper, Watson & Co.

Thurlow said the institutions had bought heavily real estate investment stocks and when one of these companies forecast a decline in their earnings, institutions hurried to sell, and

HOW'D THE HISTORY TEST GO TODAY, JAN?

NEED YOU ASK? IT WAS A BOMB, BUT, BOY, MY FRENCH IS FLYING!!

UH, JILL, WOULD YOU, UH, BE ABLE TO MAKE IT ALONE? I MEAN IF I WERE GONE?

OH, JAN! EVERY TIME YOU FALL IN LOVE YOU ASK ME THAT!

OF COURSE I COULD! WE'RE COMING CLOSER TO THAT EVERY DAY!

IF YOU ONLY KNEW HOW CLOSE IT IS RIGHT NOW!!

PLEASE, MRS. WARREN...

THIS IS NOT EXACTLY AN AFFAIR OF THE HEART, AS YOU PUT IT. I'LL... I'LL EXPLAIN MORE SOME OTHER TIME.

TED LOCKED IN THE 'GUEST ROOM'! NO CHANCE OF REACHING RIP OR ANYONE ELSE. I'M TRAPPED...

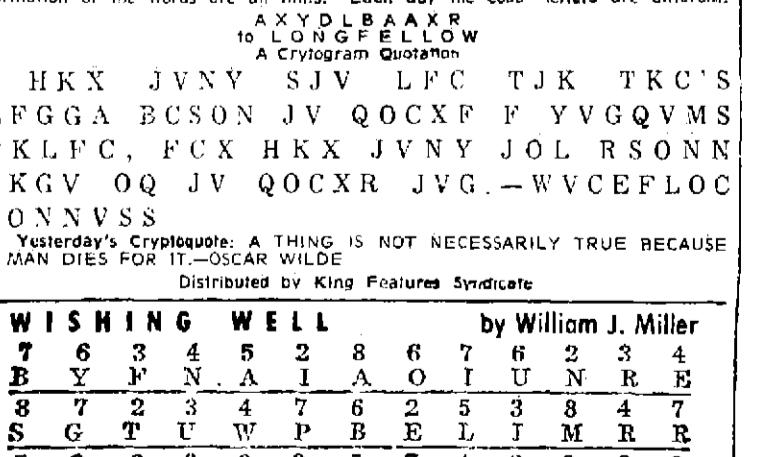

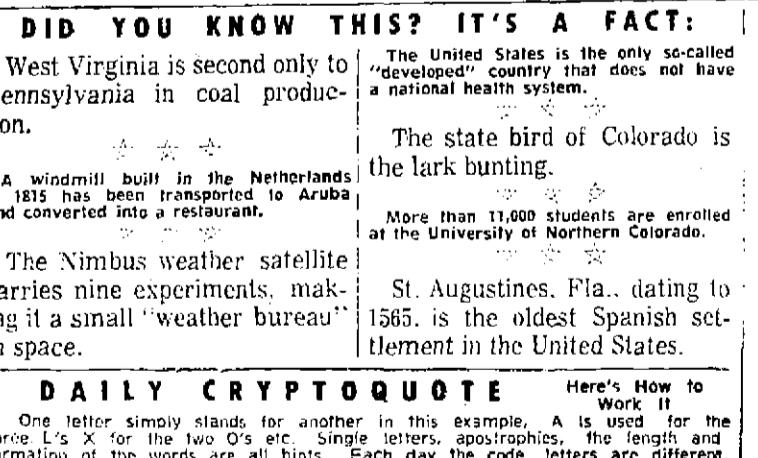

WINKY AND MISSY ARE GROWING UP SO FAST!

SOME DAY THEY'LL BE MARRIED AND HAVE CHILDREN...

AND PROBABLY MOVE HUNDREDS OF MILES AWAY FROM US!

OH, I'LL MISS YOU SO MUCH!
